Move To 'Last Frontier' Ends In Double Tragedy

PALMER, Alaska (AP) — A young couple who came to Alaska "to get in on a little of the last frontier" instead found death nine days apart in the harsh land they adopted.

The body of Gail E. Russell, 30, was recovered Wednesday from the wreckage of her home on the Knik River Road. The wood-frame house, 10 miles outside this community, was crushed in a mudslide Tuesday.

Rain had pelted the area for a week, loosening a flood of rock and soil on Pioneer Peak, 55 miles north of Anchorage. Her husband, Gerald, 32, died nine days ago in a snowmobile accident at Lake Louise, 75 miles northeast of Anchorage.

The couple moved from California to Palmer three years ago, where Russell founded and operated a painting company. Mrs. Russell worked at a branch of the Alaska Bank of Commerce.

"They were the kind of people Alaska needs," said Kyle Turner, branch manager. "They weren't the type to sit down and whine and say somebody should give me something."

He said the couple was "drawn to Alaska like a magnet. They wanted to get in on a little of the last frontier and have a chance to enjoy the recreation that Alaska offers. They both had snowmachines and they had a horse or two."

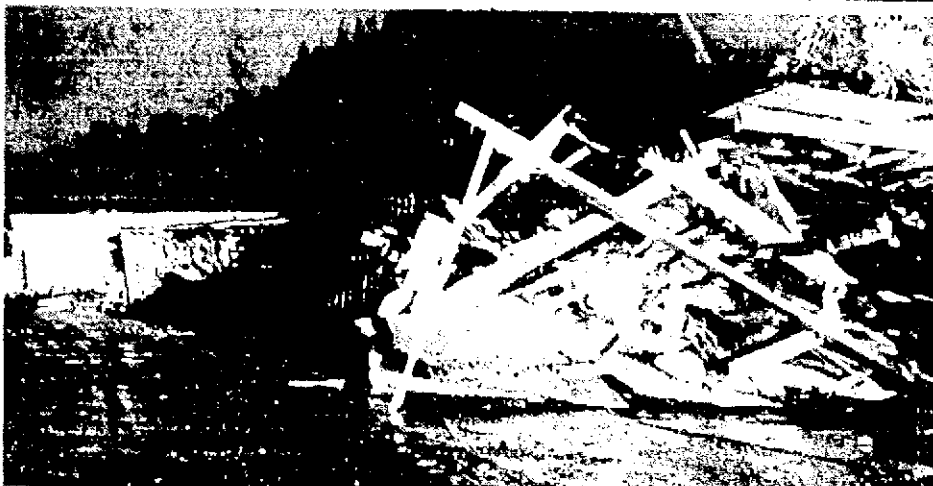

When they came here, he said, "they kind of had a tough go. But he had a little business that was running and it seemed like they were where if they wanted to buy a meal they could. They weren't rolling in money, but the pressure was off."

The slide that killed Mrs. Russell also inundated an unoccupied trailer belonging to her neighbor and coworker, Delona Woods, was also inundated by the slide. Troopers said the trailer was carried 75 feet and its shattered remains came to rest on a fallen telephone pole.

Ms. Woods, who prefers that designation, said she and Mrs. Russell had been warned as they left work Tuesday that slides might occur in the area.

Driving Wrong Way On Tennessee Freeway

LEBANON, Tenn. (AP) — Leslie Henry King, President Ford's 33-year-old half brother, was killed today when his car collided head-on with a tractor-trailer loaded with pipe, police said.

Ford learned of King's death shortly after 7 a.m. when King's widow called the President, a White House spokesman said. There was no immediate word whether Ford would attend the funeral.

State police Sgt. Ron Hill said King's car was westbound in the eastbound lane of Interstate 40 about 5 1/2 miles west of this central Tennessee town when it hit the tractor-trailer, King, a resident of Cookeville, Tenn., where he owned an auto parts store, was alone in the car and apparently was killed outright, Hill said.

The driver of the tractor-trailer, Billy Hudson, was not injured, Hill said.

Hill said it took more than an hour to cut King's body from the tangled wreckage.

Witnesses told police that King had been driving in the wrong direction for several miles, Hill said.

Operators of Citizens Band radios who saw King driving the wrong way said they tried unsuccessfully to warn him off the highway.

His body was taken to McFarland Hospital in Lebanon.

Hill said an investigation would be made.

King was one of three children born to Ford's father, Leslie L. King, by a second marriage.

President Ford, born in Omaha, Neb., in 1913, was the only child of the first marriage and originally was named Leslie L. King Jr.

His parents divorced in 1915, and the following year his mother married Gerald R. Ford of Grand Rapids, Mich., who adopted the baby and renamed him. Mrs. Ford subsequently bore three other sons.

Ford did not learn until he was a teen-ager that he was the adopted son of his mother's second husband.

King, who also was a hunting guide, said he recalled first meeting his half-brother when Ford was an assistant football coach at Yale University in New Haven, Conn., where Ford attended law school.

During the years that followed, they exchanged letters and met whenever Ford's political trips took him into Tennessee.

After Ford became president in 1974, King, who was a member of the state Republican executive committee, invited him to visit the state. He said then he felt closer personally to

Ford than to either of his two full sisters "because of our political thinking."

King was an active supporter of Ford's recent election campaign in Tennessee. While campaigning in the state, he indicated he was thinking of seeking office himself, saying he might "run for something instead of somebody."

Earlier this year, King criticized the news media for what he said he felt was an effort among reporters to make the President look bad.

Utah Firing Squad Takes Aim Monday

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Death penalty opponents say they'll make a "concerted effort" to stop the Monday sunrise execution of Gary Gilmore, who wants to be the first Utah convict to stand up to face a five-man firing squad.

The U.S. Supreme Court eventually will get the case on appeal and when it does "they're going to look at it and say, 'My God! This is a circus,'" predicted Jinks Dabney, a lawyer for the American Civil Liberties Union.

Dabney said he would meet today with other attorneys to coordinate plans for stopping the execution, which District Court Judge J. Robert Bullock ordered to take place two days after the convicted murderer's 36th birthday.

Robert Van Setver, an attorney for other Death Row convicts, said, "It's really going to be a concerted effort on the part of a lot of interest groups. We just want to be certain there isn't any overlap" in plans to stop the execution.

Asked how Gilmore, who has consistently fought for a speedy execution, would react to a delaying appeal, his attorney, Ronald Stanger, said, "I don't think he would be happy."

If carried out on schedule, Gilmore's execution would be the first in the United States since June 2, 1967, when Luis Jose Monge died in Colorado's gas chamber.

In Texas, convicted murderer Robert White, 30, is scheduled to die in the electric chair four days later on Dec. 10. However, White's attorney appealed to a justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, who referred the request to the full court. There was no indication when the court would act.

The National Weather Service said sunrise in Salt Lake City on Monday will be at 7:47 MST.

Gilmore had said he wanted a six-pack of beer as his last meal, but he has been on a hunger strike since Nov. 19 because officials refuse to let him talk with his girl friend, Nicole Barrett, 20. She was confined to a mental hospital on her mother's orders after she and Gilmore took sleeping pills in an abortive suicide pact on Nov. 16.

Stanger said his client had expressed no last wishes. But he said it was "entirely possible" that Gilmore would request one final meeting with Mrs. Barrett.

Bullock, who presided over Gilmore's trial on charges of killing a motel clerk, originally sentenced him to die on Nov. 15. But the sentence was stayed by Gov. Calvin Hampton pending a review by the state Pardons Board.

At Wednesday's resentencing hearing — one day after the board upheld the death sentence

— Bullock rejected a petition by a former Gilmore lawyer, Tom Jones, that would have stayed the execution pending appeal.

Texan's Execution Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. has postponed the scheduled Dec. 10 execution of convicted Texas murderer James Livingston. Powell acted Wednesday to give the full court time to consider Livingston's formal appeal that he be spared the electric chair. He was one of two men sentenced to death for the 1974 murders of three persons during a robbery of a rural North Texas grocery store. The other convicted murderer, Robert Excell White, has pleaded with the high court to let him die. White's lawyers, however, have asked the court to delay his execution. White's case is being considered by all nine justices.

Mother Nature continued to give southwestern Michigan the cold shoulder by dumping an additional two to eight inches of new snow during the night and sending temperatures below the 10 degree mark in some areas.

Hardest hit was Van Buren county, from Bloomington to Paw Paw, where another eight inches of new snow was reported. Northwestern Cass county including Dowagiac and Sister Lakes also reported from three to five inches of new snow.

A Benton Harbor man, Will "Willie" Soules Jr., 60, 1071 Colfax avenue, died at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday in Mercy hospital. He apparently suffered a heart attack while shoveling snow at his home at 9:30 a.m. and was rushed to the hospital.

Heavy snow fell across the entire Great Lakes region today as a new blast of Arctic cold pounded temperatures far below zero in northern Minnesota and Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

The forecast for southwestern Michigan calls for very cold temperatures tonight with occasional flurries. Low tonight is expected to be from zero to five above. Probability of precipitation Friday is 70 per cent and the extended forecast calls for a chance of snow each day Saturday through Monday. It is expected to warm up to the mid-30's by Sunday, however.

Wind-chill factors early this morning equaled readings well below zero in southwestern Michigan.

Roads throughout the area were reported snow covered and slippery, but passable. Paul Kaiser, Van Buren county road commission engineer-manager, said crews were out since 4:30 a.m. and that he had issued a school bus drivers advisory to schools. "Our main worry now is the wind. If it starts to blow, we could have a lot of drifting," he said.

Only three area schools were reported closed this morning. Lawton and the Arlington school in Van Buren county and Marcellus in Cass county.

The Berrien and Cass county road commissions also reported roads snow covered and slippery.

Four people were injured, one seriously, in three separate weather-related vehicle accidents in the area.

Harold Richards, 35, Kalamazoo, was injured when the van he was driving went out of control on slippery I-94 striking the Benton Center road overpass support in Benton township at 2:30 a.m. He was listed in serious condition at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, this morning.

Two Niles men were treated for cuts and bruises and later released from Pawawing hospital. They were involved in an accident in which their auto slid across U.S. 12 in Cass county's Milton township striking the right front side of an oncoming state highway department snowplow. The injured were identified by police as Carl Weems, 21, and Ward Deutscher, 27. The accident occurred at 8:30 a.m.

Michael Mitchell, 26, of Portage, was listed in good condition at Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac, following a 2:28 a.m. accident on M-51, between Pokagon and Dowagiac in Cass county. Mitchell apparently lost control of his auto on the slippery road, sliding into a utility

Tax-Sharing Plan Urged By Damman

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Lt. Gov. James Damman says the underlying message of a report on property tax revision is that affluent communities should share tax revenues with their less affluent neighbors.

The report, issued Wednesday by the Governor's Task Force on Property Tax Revision said it found Michigan's property tax to be "one of the fairest in the country." Taxpayers who have complained about the tax either misunderstood or were misinformed, the report said.

To correct that, the report called for an intense public education campaign to boost the property tax's popularity. In addition, it proposed several ways to make the tax more fair.

Damman, head of the task force, said the report could be used as ammunition by Gov. William Milliken, who proposed a tax base sharing program in the Detroit metropolitan area earlier this year. Milliken's plan is designed to help erase disparities between communities with industries and high property tax revenues and those which must provide services for industry employees.

The property tax report left the door open for solutions to the problem. But Damman said any solution would have to include sharing.

"More affluent communities with higher tax bases are going to have to help, at least to some extent, those with lower tax bases," he said. He declined to say whether the task force thought such an approach should be limited to the Detroit area or apply statewide.

The report's conclusion that the Michigan property tax is relatively fair is based on statistics that show some $400 million in tax credits have been issued to renters and homeowners since a relief program was begun in 1973.

"The program eliminates most of the regressivity of the tax and lessens the burden for all taxpayers, especially senior citizens, when one's property tax bill is high relative to one's income," the report said.

The task force also refused to recommend that the state push for a constitutional amendment to provide full state funding for education, now financed mainly through local property tax revenues.

It said there was not enough support from educators and school administrators for such a change. Instead, the task force urged improvements in the equal yield concept of school funding, which guarantees the same amount of money per child for most districts.

Under that system, still in its infancy, the state supplements property taxes collected by poorer districts.

Amending The Electoral College

Since the early morning hours of November 3d, there is no doubt in anyone's mind that Jimmy Carter is President-elect by 51 per cent of the popular vote and 297 votes in the electoral college, 10 per cent more than needed for a bare majority.

What is not generally understood outside the domain of historians, professors of political science and the more perceptive politicians is that when the delegates nominated to the electoral college meet to ballot on December 13th they could deny Carter the Presidency.

The chance is remote indeed this would happen and if it did, those putting the skids under Carter would be drowned in unshucked peanuts or worse.

The fact that it is legally possible for the college to go against the popular will is prompting Indiana's Senator Birch Bayh to introduce an amendment to the Constitution calling for the President to be chosen by direct popular vote.

As an influential member of the Senate's Judiciary Committee, Bayh may have better luck than others over the years trying to put across the identical plan.

Historically, there is support for abolishing the college.

In 1800 the House of Representatives broke a college deadlock between Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr to favor Jefferson even though the popular vote never was established as a nationwide statistic.

In 1824 election returns seemingly gave Andrew Jackson the popular decision over John Quincy Adams and presumably a majority in the electoral college. Adams, however, had the stronger following in the House which declared the electoral college vote to be stalemated and proceeded to install him as President.

Samuel J. Tilden won a 270,000 popular majority over Rutherford B. Hayes in 1876. However, the vote distribution was such that Hayes finished with a one-vote lead in the college. This was the first election openly described as using fraudulent tactics to win the White House.

Twelve years later Benjamin Harrison handily unseated Grover Cleveland in the college though the incumbent had a 90,000 plurality in the popular vote.

The latest example of the electoral college's vulnerability came in the razor thin election of Richard Nixon over Hubert Humphrey. Nixon took a 110,000 lead among 63 million votes cast. The distribution in state by state voting gave him a 3-2 margin in the college. Nonetheless, George Wallace tried to stymie both candidates with his votes in the college unless either one would concede him certain favors.

The reason for the college was the Founding Fathers' desire to equalize the states under our federal system. The reason was even more pragmatic. The Constitution's writing and adoption depended heavily upon this regional compromise.

Since in every state except Maine the college delegates are chosen by the winner take all formula this reason has lost much of its logic.

The candidates concentrate on the heavily populated states and tend to ignore the smaller ones.

As a result, the argument for continuing the college now proceeds on the inverse logic that its abolition would reduce the political clout of the large states and that of its majority residents within those states.

Another argument against abolition comes from splinter groups. They can not command much of a showing in the popular vote, but believe eliminating the college would cancel any opportunity for them to be heard.

Strangely enough, however, the leadership in the two major parties adopts the splinter complaint for their own defense. Direct, popular election, these leaders contend, would undermine the two-party system.

The college fit the national requirement in the Republic's early days before the great disparity in population distribution took place.

Class-Average Raisers To Mark Bicentennial

What do Mark Twain, Nelson Rockefeller and Gloria Steinem have in common? During their college days, all three were elected to membership in the oldest Greek-letter fraternity in the United States — Phi Beta Kappa. This year the famous honor society celebrates its 200th anniversary. Phi Beta Kappa was formed 200 years ago, on Dec. 5, 1776, by five students at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va. As their insignia, they adopted a square silver medal bearing on one side the Greek letters Phi, Beta and Kappa, a pointing finger and three stars. The finger symbolized the ambition of young scholars while the stars represented the three aims of the society — friendship, morality and learning. In its initial period at William and Mary, Phi Beta Kappa introduced most of the essential characteristics of later college fraternities: an oath of secrecy, a badge, mottoes in Greek and Latin, a code of laws, an elaborate initiation and a special handshake.

Many of the early members served in the Revolutionary War, the Virginia legislature, the Continental Congress and the U.S. Congress. One early member, John Marshall, was Chief Justice of the United States from 1801 to 1835. The original chapter disbanded after four years, when the Revolutionary War forced the college to close. But in December 1778 new chapters (or Alphas) were added to Harvard and Yale. By 1883, 25 chapters had been chartered and about 14,000 persons elected to membership. Today there are 214 chapters at colleges and universities across the nation and approximately 325,000 living members, including Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, CIA Director George Bush, Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns and six of the nine Supreme Court justices.

To celebrate its 200th anniversary, Phi Beta Kappa is sponsoring a special Bicentennial Council at Williamsburg starting Friday, Dec. 3. Speakers during the five-day meeting will include Attorney General Edward Levi; Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare David Matthews; Librarian of Congress Daniel Boorstin; and Philip Handler, president of the National Academy of Sciences. In addition to the usual assortment of serious meetings and not-so-serious parties, the occasion will be marked by the performance of a special oratorio commissioned especially for the anniversary.

The demolition of the oldest hotel in southwestern Michigan is complete and the only remains of the old Hotel Brandon, corner of Ship and State streets, St. Joseph, is a pile of trash, which is rapidly being hauled away. When the workmen had leveled the building down to the first floor, there began a search for money and considerable of it was found. One man found several coins amounting in all to $1.70. Many persons have visited the ruins and joined in the search for stray coins.

The report of St. Joseph Chief of Police Morton to the city council tomorrow night will be one that should be eminently satisfactory. During the month, there were only about fifteen arrests, which is a remarkably low number. Chief Morton claims that the city is now practically free from crime. Saloons are obeying the 11 o'clock closing injunction and the chief reports no disorderly houses in the city.

I am greatly amazed that the so called expert economists have not once, at least that I have read in the news media or seen on television, gave the real basis for our increasing inflation. I would appreciate an answer to my contention that not one consumer product has not become inflated by the above facts.

China Cracks Door To West

WASHINGTON — There are hints in the news which indicate that China under Chairman Hua Kuo-feng may be on the verge of opening up slightly to the outside world.

For one, reports suggest Peking may soon take on once more the large-scale import of foreign technology, abandoned some time back because of fears the practice might lead to dangerous dependence on foreigners. The Chinese were burned, it will be recalled, by their experience with the Russians. Moscow, after moving in technicians and equipment heavily for a few years, withdrew abruptly when Peking refused to knuckle under to Moscow's demand for complete alignment of Chinese foreign policy with the Soviet.

The rapid withdrawal of the Russian personnel and equipment did severe damage to the Chinese economy, which took years to recover.

Renewed interest in importing technology and equipment most certainly will focus on non-Communist nations. Note here that most of the outstanding scientific leaders of China are basically oriented toward the West — and particularly toward the United States, Great Britain, Japan and West Germany. A goodly share of the top men have their degrees from these countries. Some have had influential posts in the West before returning to China.

Secondly, there has been in the upper echelons of China's political hierarchy a belief in the benefits of American industrial production methods. This conviction was shared by Chairman Mao Tse-tung in his Yenan days.

In the stormy years since Yenan, there has been pressure to open Chinese industry to Western technology and equipment. But political differences and the experience with Russia kept the door closed. These fears may be easing as far as the West is concerned.

Now what will this move, if it eventually, mean to the United States?

American technology and equipment sold to China, and American know-how in the form of training, would most certainly strengthen a totalitarian country whose aims are not parallel with our own in much of the world, the Far East in particular.

The detriment to the defense of the United States would not by any means be as serious as our selling technology and equipment to Russia, whose military growth in the next decade could well threaten the security of the United States and the free world.

There is however, evidence, tenuous though it may be, that China will continue to be a rival of, and a balance against, the Soviet Union for a goodly period of time to come. There are national rivalries and deep sore points which now and in the foreseeable future may well bar any real reconciliation between the two nations. For one, China cannot be comfortable with a strong military power next door working year in and year out to expand its military — political influence across China's southern and northeastern borders — a technique which Peking calls encirclement.

If China should, in fact, continue to be a counter balance to Russia, it is to the benefit of the United States, with proper precautions, to strengthen the Chinese economy within limits, with special emphasis on aid improving the lot of the Chinese people as distinct from the Peking military establishment.

A note of warning: Closer economic relations with China should not and must not lead us to default on our relationship with Taiwan.

Proposal C Excellent Idea

On state and local issues last Nov. 2, the liberal position took a pretty thorough drubbing, with one striking exception. Across the country, the liberals lost on gun control (in Massachusetts, of all places), on right-to-work, on Cesar Chavez, and on nuclear power issues, but they managed to turn back "Proposal C" in Michigan, an excellent idea whose time evidently has not quite arrived.

Proposal C contained two principal items. One would have limited state taxes to 8.5 per cent of the personal income of Michigan residents in the previous fiscal year. Second, it insured that this limit could not be circumvented by shifting functions from the state to the local level without providing financial compensation.

Proposal C aimed to correct what Nobel Prize-winning economist Milton Friedman has identified as a defect in our political structure.

Theoretically, the voters have control over the amount of taxes they pay, since they elect to the legislature the representatives who pass the tax laws. In practice, it does not quite work out that way, and legislatures end up passing higher taxes than voters would support if they had a direct say in the matter.

This occurs because particular items have the support of small but intense constituencies.

If it costs you about $5 per year as an individual to pay for the $800 million annual Federal subsidy to the Merchant Marine, you might not like it but your probably will not go to Washington to picket and lobby against the legislation. The maritime unions, in contrast, have a powerful incentive to get the bill passed, and — in the absence of organized opposition — the clout to do so.

Similarly, though voters across the nation consistently reject higher expenditures for education when this comes before them as a local issue, such expenditures rise steadily at the state and Federal levels, where the education lobby has much more clout than the ordinary citizen.

Not surprisingly, the Michigan Education Association fought tooth-and-nail against Proposal C, raising a reported half million dollars for the campaign against it. The educators, ever more tax dollars dancing in their eyes, were joined by the usual expanding-government lobby: the League of Women Voters, the AFL-CIO, the UAW. The resulting media blitz made the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy resemble Spinoza.

The voters were told that if Proposal C passed, criminals would roam the streets, buildings would burn to the ground, old people would have to move out onto the sidewalks, and farmers would be ruined. The incredible claim was made that taxes would actually rise. Michigan State University mailed a letter to the parents of every student, claiming that passing the proposal would mean increased tuition. Grade-schoolers came home with anti-Proposal C literature.

As a result of this cascade of self-generating misinformation, the proposal sank rapidly in the opinion polls. An October survey showed voters favoring it by an overwhelming 47-21, with the rest undecided. On Nov. 2, however, it went down 57-45, the campaign to flim-flam the voters achieving a spectacular triumph.

The Michigan vote was a setback, surely, but tax-limiting proposals are surfacing in at least a dozen other states as well as at the Federal level, and the special interests cannot bamboozle a majority of the voters forever.

Amending The Electoral College

Since the early morning hours of November 3d, there is no doubt in anyone's mind that Jimmy Carter is President-elect by 51 per cent of the popular vote and 297 votes in the electoral college, 10 per cent more than needed for a bare majority.

What is not generally understood outside the domain of historians, professors of political science and the more perceptive politicians is that when the delegates nominated to the electoral college meet to ballot on December 13th they could deny Carter the Presidency.

The chance is remote indeed this would happen and if it did, those putting the skids under Carter would be drowned in unshucked peanuts or worse.

The fact that it is legally possible for the college to go against the popular will is prompting Indiana's Senator Birch Bayh to introduce an amendment to the Constitution calling for the President to be chosen by direct popular vote.

As an influential member of the Senate's Judiciary Committee, Bayh may have better luck than others over the years trying to put across the identical plan.

Historically, there is support for abolishing the college.

In 1800 the House of Representatives broke a college deadlock between Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr to favor Jefferson even though the popular vote never was established as a nationwide statistic.

In 1824 election returns seemingly gave Andrew Jackson the popular decision over John Quincy Adams and presumably a majority in the electoral college. Adams, however, had the stronger following in the House which declared the electoral college vote to be stalemated and proceeded to install him as President.

Samuel J. Tilden won a 270,000 popular majority over Rutherford B. Hayes in 1876. However, the vote distribution was such that Hayes finished with a one-vote lead in the college. This was the first election openly described as using fraudulent tactics to win the White House.

Twelve years later Benjamin Harrison handily unseated Grover Cleveland in the college though the incumbent had a 90,000 plurality in the popular vote.

The latest example of the electoral college's vulnerability came in the razor thin election of Richard Nixon over Hubert Humphrey. Nixon took a 110,000 lead among 63 million votes cast. The distribution in state by state voting gave him a 3-2 margin in the college. Nonetheless, George Wallace tried to stymie both candidates with his votes in the college unless either one would concede him certain favors.

The reason for the college was the Founding Fathers' desire to equalize the states under our federal system. The reason was even more pragmatic. The Constitution's writing and adoption depended heavily upon this regional compromise.

Since in every state except Maine the college delegates are chosen by the winner take all formula this reason has lost much of its logic.

The candidates concentrate on the heavily populated states and tend to ignore the smaller ones.

As a result, the argument for continuing the college now proceeds on the inverse logic that its abolition would reduce the political clout of the large states and that of its majority residents within those states.

Another argument against abolition comes from splinter groups. They can not command much of a showing in the popular vote, but believe eliminating the college would cancel any opportunity for them to be heard.

Strangely enough, however, the leadership in the two major parties adopts the splinter complaint for their own defense. Direct, popular election, these leaders contend, would undermine the two-party system.

The college fit the national requirement in the Republic's early days before the great disparity in population distribution took place.

Its continuance today simply accentuates an imbalance that eliminating the college would bring under better control.

Flood Insurance Study Review Next Week

BY TOM BRUNDRETT
State Editor

A public information meeting is to be held Dec. 7 on federal flood insurance studies in Royalton and Sodus townships. The hearing is to be held in the Royalton township hall, Scottsdale road at John Beers road, starting at 7 p.m.

The studies were the result of the townships becoming part of the federal low-cost flood insurance program and have been underway for some time. William C. Fueck, regional director for the federal Flood Insurance agency, said the purpose of the meeting would be to review contents of the studies and receive comments from people in the study areas.

The studies cover the flooding potential, set elevation requirements for buildings in view of the potential and determine insurance rates for affected property in both townships. Appeals to proposed provisions of the plans may be filed for 90 days after the hearing. The townships will then have six months to adopt ordinances making the plan final and implementing provisions Fueck said.

Once the 90-day period ends, both townships will shift from what has been coverage in the program under an emergency basis to a regular basis. The change means that the amount of insurance available on property within the study areas will be doubled. The added coverage may be obtained at the costs set in the study.

The studies in both townships were conducted by Johnson and Anderson, Inc., an engineering firm from Pontiac, under contract with the federal government. Fueck said the Royalton township study cost about $28,000 while the Sodus township work cost about $4,000.

Announcement of the public information meeting was made by Otto Jasper, Royalton township clerk, and Clarence Steinke, Sodus township supervisor. Erick Jenkins, a flood insurance specialist from the federal agency, is to be present as are representatives of the engineering firm and the state Department of Natural Resources.

High Court Upholds Berrien Convictions

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The Michigan Supreme court has unanimously reversed a state appellate court decision and upheld the Berrien Circuit court convictions and sentences of a Benton Harbor man.

The Michigan Court of Appeals had reduced the man's sentence from 10 to 30 years in prison to 90 days because the jury forelady left out two words when announcing the verdicts. The two words were "with intent."

Reinstated were the convictions and sentences of Joe Eddie

Rand, 21, who in 1974 was sentenced to concurrent 5 to 10 and 10 to 30-year sentences by Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White, who presided over Rand's trial.

Rand went to trial on charges of armed robbery and assault with intent to commit murder, but the jury, in the report from the forelady, found him guilty of "assault to commit robbery while armed" and "assault to do great bodily harm less than the crime of murder."

The appeals court last year held that since the words "with intent" were not included in the verdict, there was no element of felonious intent, and Rand should not have been sentenced for felonies. The court ruled he was technically convicted of simple assault, and ordered Rand released because he had already served more than 90 days.

Rand had remained in prison while the Berrien prosecutor's office appealed the ruling to the state's high court.

The Supreme court opinion noted the words "with intent" were not included on a list of possible verdicts from which the jury could choose, and noted: "Jurors are not trained in the law, and therefore will often fail to state their verdict with technical legal precision."

"The very purpose of language is to express ideas. The written form of the verdict should not be exalted over the substantive intent of the jury. We hold that a jury verdict is not void for uncertainty if the jury's intent can be clearly deduced by reference to the pleadings, the court's charge (which included the words "with intent"), and the entire record."

Supreme court justices also noted simple assault was listed on the jury form "and could have been easily indicated by the jury if in fact the jury's intent was to convict on that offense alone."

"Under these circumstances, the jury's verdict may be clearly deduced by reference to the record. To find otherwise would, quite literally, exalt the form over the substance."

Advisory Chairman Elected

Larry Fisher of Lakeside has been elected chairman of the advisory council of the Region 4 Agency on Aging.

Fisher, community school director for the River Valley school system, was elected chairman by the newly-formed advisory council at a meeting yesterday at Benton Harbor Holiday Inn.

Elderly Man Is Victim Of Lincoln Store Bandits

Two men robbed an 83-year-old employee at the Lakeshore Food market, 4730 Red Arrow highway, Lincoln township, yesterday and escaped with $75. Berrien sheriff's deputies reported.

Deputy Terry Smith said Louis Billions, 83, of Red Arrow highway, Lincoln township, was working inside the store at the time. He was held up with a butcher knife but was not injured.

Billions said the store is owned by his brother, William, who resides in living quarters at the store.

Smith gave this account of the robbery: Two white men entered the store about 10:15 a.m. One of the men pulled a butcher knife and held it in Billions' stomach while demanding money. The men took the money from two cash registers and fled in an auto parked outside the store.

Smith said investigation revealed there may have been three other men waiting in the car. The two men who robbed the store were described as between the ages of 20-28, one about 5-foot 8-inches tall, the other 6-foot, both with dark hair and dark clothing.

Police were summoned to the scene by a neighbor who reported a "suspicious vehicle" in the area shortly after 10 a.m. No complaint was called in on the robbery, which police discovered on arriving at the store.

The suspicious vehicle complaint may have involved the robbers, Smith said.

The auto the two men fled in was described as light gray with a dark top. The men fled north on Red Arrow highway.

The store is located at the corner of Red Arrow highway and Marquette Woods road near the I-94 overpass.

Superstars Are Toys Models

NEW YORK (AP) — Realism best describes the trend in new toys for this Christmas, according to David Miller, president of Toy Manufacturers of America.

This includes playthings inspired by popular media figures — especially TV heroes and heroines — as well as people and places in the news and current social trends, he reports.

Many new toys, games and dolls are based on TV programs, movies and comic books," Miller says. "Playthings influenced by the mass media include 'Sesame Street' and second-generation 'Mickey Mouse Club' items, medical-emergency and rescue vehicles, fire and crime-fighting games and toys and several space travel playthings."

In addition to dolls modeled after famous athletes and superstar characters from TV shows, other new dolls include action figures and career dolls for boys and girls and a variety of fashion and traditional dolls.

To challenge the good guys, some new "bad guys" action dolls come equipped with steel arms, torpedo-style fists, bullet-shaped helmets and other way-out features, Miller says.

Toys and games based on newsmaking events and contemporary themes include a model kit of ocean explorer Jacques Cousteau's research vessel (with a share of the profits earmarked for the Cousteau Society), games evocative of CIA-type adventures and the first anatomically complete boy and girl dolls to be made in America. Three United States toy-makers are introducing the true-to-life baby dolls this year, Miller says.

Activity playsets — based upon familiar, and fun, situations — will offer mini-worlds of hospitals, farms, amusement parks and road racetracks.

With the large number and variety of toys on the market today, a few simple guidelines offered by the TMA will help consumers select the right items for children of various ages and interests. Miller suggests:

— Carefully consider the child's age, interests and abilities before shopping for toys. Note the age guidelines printed on many toy packages and select playthings that will help children learn new skills and discover new interests, such as sports, arts or the sciences.

— Don't buy toys impulsively. Consider the types of toys that capture your child's interest, not only those kinds of toys that you enjoyed in childhood.

— Select playthings with some degree of realism. Through TV, movies and books, today's children are aware of and stimulated by the world around them. Psychologists suggest that playthings that are scaled-down models of real-life objects help children become inventive and imaginative in their play.

— Look for toys that provide a variety of play experiences. There are many toys that suggest a variety of activities to children and encourage them to use their imagination in play.

— Gradually introduce more complex versions of familiar playthings. Observe children's play to determine when they are ready for the next, more complex play experience.

— Spread your toy budget throughout the year. Don't overwhelm children with too many new toys at once. Use birthdays, the start of family vacations and other occasions to introduce new toys and new play experiences.

— Involve your children in the toy selection process. Discussing toy selection with children encourages them to think for themselves and live with the consequences of their decisions — a valuable lesson in consumer education.

Craft, Hobby Show

A senior citizens' craft and hobby show is being presented today, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 2-3, at the Benton Harbor-Benton Township Senior Service Center, 53 Wall street, Benton Harbor.

The public is invited to the show, which will be held from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. each day. Refreshments will be available.

Routine Hair Care

What do massaging, brushing and shampooing do for hair?

Massaging with the fingers or massage brush stimulates the only living part of the hair shaft, the root. It improves circulation, helps relieve tension, controls dryness and flakiness, and helps an oily scalp function normally. Brushing, by bending from the waist to brush hair forward, then up and back, tugs at the roots to stimulate circulation and distribute natural oil along each hair, to keep it shining, smooth, manageable. Shampooing removes dirt, excess oils, scalp secretions, hair spray and lotions.

All work together for healthy, clean hair and should be part of a regular grooming routine.

Hanging Of The Greens Sunday At YWCA

Children will have the opporunity to make decorations to take home.

The YWCA, located at 508

By DOROTHY KING

When I make pants for myself I always have trouble with making the crotch fit correctly. The crotch is either too long or too short, depending on the brand name pattern I buy. What can I do to get a good fit? L.L., Benton Harbor

Dear L.L.: Measure the tissue pattern in both front and back on the crotch lines from seam line to seam line, not including seam allowances.

Now, measure your own crotch by sitting erect on a flat chair seat and measure from your natural waistline all the way to the seat of the chair. Compare measurements and begin adjustments.

To lengthen crotch depth: 1. Slash front and back pattern sections along the lengthening or shortening line on both front and back tissue pattern.

2. You can spread the sections apart on the fabric the amount needed and pin in place or place paper in opening and use transparent tape to secure, making sure front and back pattern sections are lengthened an equal amount.

3. Redraw cutting lines at front and side seams.

To shorten crotch depth:

1. Measure from the lengthening, shortening line up the side seam allowance of both front and back of pants the amount of decrease required. At this point, draw a line parallel to the first.

2. Fold pattern sections to bring printed line and newly drawn lines together.

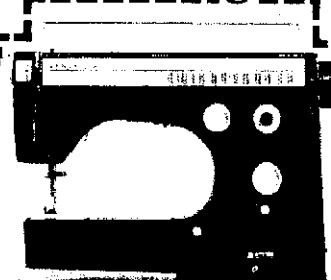

3. Use magic transparent tape to hold in place.

4. Redraw cutting lines at front and side seams.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

The Coin Has Two Sides

Dear Ann Landers: May I reply to the writer who complained about how crude and insensitive men have become, as evidenced by their refusal to surrender their seats on the bus to pregnant women and old ladies?

I frequently give my seat to anyone I think needs it — a man OR woman — and I'm a female. But I'm in good health and can stand a lot easier than most people.

My brother, Jack, on the other hand, doesn't have my kind of stamina. His job takes a lot out of him, plus he's raising four kids alone and does most of the housework. So when Jack gets on a bus he looks forward to reading his paper and getting some rest.

The other day this old woman got on the bus and stood next to Jack. After a few minutes she said, "If you're not going to offer me your seat, you can at least hold my packages." With that she dumped two large boxes in his lap and continued to insult him. He simply ignored her — too tired to get into an argument.

So please tell that reader the next time she sees a man sitting on a bus while women are standing, to reserve judgment. There may be some good reasons she knows nothing about. — L.A.

Dear L.A.: Thanks for putting us all in the other person's shoes for a short stroll. Too often we see only the obvious — and miss plenty.

Public Abuse

Dear Ann Landers: As a toll collector for several years on the Illinois Toll Road, I've become an authority on taking abuse from the public.

Will you advise your readers that if they have a complaint to take it up with someone higher up — where it will do some good?

On behalf of all the people who work behind a cash register, whether it's a toll collector, a check-out counter in a food market, a drugstore, a restaurant or what have you, please let me say this: We don't set the prices and we don't make the rules. We are working stiffs like most of you folks. We aren't machines. We are humans who have troubles, and there are more bad days than good.

Please don't jeopardize our jobs by provoking arguments just because you had a fight with someone at home or at work and feel the need to take it out on the first person you run into. Thanks a lot. — Servant Of The Public

Dear Public Servant: You understand the workings of human nature very well. The next step is to develop a tolerance for people who have been kicked around and feel the need to kick someone else. If you don't, YOU'll go home and yell at your wife and she will probably turn around and kick the cat.

Fire Tips

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you gave a partial answer to someone who wanted to know how to handle a grease fire in a frying pan. You suggested throwing salt on the flame, which was correct, but a large quantity of salt would be required.

Baking soda is also effective, but flour or baking POWDER may actually explode. Since these are all white powders, they could be easily confused in an emergency. Water is also dangerous. Trying to carry the pan to the sink may result in spreading the fire or worse yet, your hair or clothing may catch on fire.

The simplest and best method of extinguishing a flame in a pan is to pop a lid over the pan, thereby shutting off the air supply and suffocating the fire. If the fire gets out of hand everyone should be evacuated and the fire department called. — Gerald Z. Kaplan, M.D., U.S. Army Institute of Surgical Research

Dear Doctor Kaplan: Thanks for the additional information. Hope you never draw KP, but if you do, the entire outfit will be a safer place because you know your stuff.

The bidding at both tables back in 1930 was the same as it would be today. West's double of one club was made on minimum values, as was North's bid of one spade. When South jumped to three clubs, he played it there.

Both West players got off to an ace of hearts lead and continued with a heart to partner's king. Each East led a third heart and after a little worry each declarer ruffed with the eight of trumps. Then they played ace and queen of clubs and would end up making three clubs as bid.

A simple hand indeed, yet the 1930 analysts felt that North might have tried a three-club trump bid and pointed out that assuming that East made his normal opening lead of the deuce of hearts and that West did not shift to a spade the game would make.

This 1930 analysis was reasonably accurate, but not entirely so. West could also beat North's three notrump contract by playing his nine of hearts after a low heart was played from dummy in the South. Then, when he got in he would cash his ace of hearts, dropping dummy's 10 and give East tricks with the king and eight over North's queen-seven.

Advice Saves On Cosmetics

Many stores have trained personnel to help a woman select the correct combination of eye and skin make-up for her complexion.

It is worth taking a few minutes to experiment, with expert help, before investing in a line of cosmetics.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I've often wondered why it is necessary for a patient to go into a hospital several days before an operation is scheduled. I came in on a Friday and it seemed that nothing was done for me until the weekend was over. — Mr. J.F., Ohio

Dear Mr. F.: The first reaction of many patients is that it is a waste of time and money to be hospitalized a few days before an elective (non-emergency) operation.

Let me assure you that these extra days are exceedingly valuable and usually make for safer surgery and a shorter convalescence. The study of the blood, including the chemistry, blood typing and blood groupings, X-rays of the chest and electrocardiograms are just a few of the tests necessary to prevent the complications of surgery and to alert the surgeon to the needs for special safeguards.

These preliminary tests, the regulation of diet, the cleansing of the intestinal tract and the preoperative use of antibiotics are all essential and insure more rapid recovery. Evaluation of the special needs of the patient by the anesthesiologist permits him to lay out a program of choice of the ideal anesthesia. Monitoring the blood pressure during the preoperative period is most important for the greater safety of anesthesia.

There are also many psychological advantages to being hospitalized a few days before surgery. Physical and emotional rest and the opportunity to thoroughly understand every phase of the surgery and the recovery period adds immeasurably to the patient's sense of security.

You can be sure that during the period of the "lost weekend" much information was gathered that was advantageous to you.

I bought some over-the-counter drops to soften wax in my ears. After using them twice, my ears blew up to half the size of my head. Aren't these too dangerous to be sold? — Mr. S.L.M., Fla.

Dear Mr. M.: These drops cannot be considered dangerous. In some cases, doctors have noted allergic or hypersensitive reactions to the chemicals used to soften wax.

A much safer way to soften wax would be to use a few drops of half-strength peroxide. Sometimes a simple oil, used warm but not hot, will be just as effective.

People who have a tendency to accumulate wax should have it removed expertly, by the doctor, at regular intervals. Six months is about average, if the wax is to be kept from becoming impacted and irritating the delicate skin of the outer ear canal.

Both West players got off to an ace of hearts lead and continued with a heart to partner's king. Each East led a third heart and after a little worry each declarer ruffed with the eight of trumps. Then they played ace and queen of clubs and would end up making three clubs as bid.

A simple hand indeed, yet the 1930 analysts felt that North might have tried a three-no-trump bid and pointed out that assuming that East made his normal opening lead of the deuce of hearts and that West did not make a spade the game would shift.

This 1930 analysis was reasonably accurate, but not entirely so. West could also beat North's three no-trump contract by playing his nine of hearts after a low heart was played from dummy in the South. Then, when he got in he would cash his ace of hearts, giving East tricks with the king and eight over North's queen-seven.

A Canadian reader wants to know if it is ever proper to make a forcing jump response with a four-card suit.

The answer is that some hands such as those with 19 high-card points or more cry out for such action. If you don't also hold a five-card suit, you may want to jump with a four-carder.

Advice Saves On Cosmetics

Many stores have trained personnel to help a woman select the correct combination of eye and skin make-up for her complexion.

It is worth taking a few minutes to experiment, with expert help, before investing in a line of cosmetics.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I've often wondered why it is necessary for a patient to go into a hospital several days before an operation is scheduled. I came in on a Friday and it seemed that nothing was done for me until the weekend was over. — Mr. J.F. Ohio

Dear Mr. F.: The first reaction of many patients is that it is a waste of time and money to be hospitalized a few days before an elective (non-emergency) operation.

Let me assure you that these extra days are exceedingly valuable and usually make for safer surgery and a shorter convalescence. The study of the blood, including the chemistry, blood typing and blood groupings, X-rays of the chest and electrocardiograms are just a few of the tests necessary to prevent the complications of surgery and to alert the surgeon to the needs for special safeguards.

These preliminary tests, the regulation of diet, the cleansing of the intestinal tract and the preoperative use of antibiotics are all essential and insure more rapid recovery.

Evaluation of the special needs of the patient by the anesthesiologist permits him to lay out a program of choice of the ideal anesthesia. Monitoring the blood pressure during the preoperative period is most important for the greater safety of anesthesia.

There are also many psychological advantages to being hospitalized a few days before surgery. Physical and emotional rest and the opportunity to thoroughly understand every phase of the surgery and the recovery period adds immeasurably to the patient's sense of security.

You can be sure that during the period of the "lost weekend" much information was gathered that was advantageous to you.

I bought some over-the-counter drops to soften wax in my ears. After using them twice, my ears blew up to half the size of my head. Aren't these too dangerous to be sold? — Mr. S.I.M., Fla.

Dear Mr. M.: These drops cannot be considered dangerous. In some cases, doctors have noted allergic or hypersensitive reactions to the chemicals used to soften wax.

A much safer way to soften wax would be to use a few drops of half-strength peroxide. Sometimes a simple oil, used warm but not hot, will be just as effective.

People who have a tendency to accumulate wax should have it removed expertly, by the doctor, at regular intervals. Six months is about average, if the wax is to be kept from becoming impacted and irritating the delicate skin of the outer ear canal.

House Okays School Retirement Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A two-year-old bill to boost retirement benefits for public school employees is one step away from final legislative approval.

Despite months of haggling and debate, the bill passed the state House Wednesday on a 90-4 vote. The Senate still must agree with amendments the House added before the bill can go to the governor.

"They know retirees have a great deal of political clout," said state Rep. Francis Spaniola, D-Corunna. He said that explained the bill's almost unanimous approval after loud Republican opposition in floor debate.

In other work Wednesday, the House passed a bill requiring all schools to provide nutritious lunches for students. Another bill it passed would legalize games of chance involving numbered tickets pulled from jars.

The retirement bill passed by the House was criticized by opponents as setting a costly precedent for the state. They predicted that other groups would beg the legislature next year for boosts in their own retirement benefits.

Specifically, the bill would grant cost-of-living increases of from one per cent to eight per cent to retirees of public school systems, retroactive to Oct. 1. Another identical increase would appear on pension checks next October.

The school lunch bill would mandate that all schools provide lunches, beginning in the 1978-79 school year. It would require them to serve the lunches free or at a lower price to needy students.

Schools with 20 per cent or more needy children would also have to serve breakfast. All would have to provide milk at cost to students.

Currently, 85 per cent of Michigan districts have full or partial lunch programs, all voluntary. New programs mandated by the bill, like those already in operation, would be funded by student fees, state and federal subsidies.

The estimated cost to the state would be $3 million more than the several million already being spent annually on the program. Chances of the bill getting final legislative approval this year are slim, though it could be reintroduced next year.

Games of chance involving numbered tickets pulled from jars could be legalized if a bill passed Wednesday by the state House gets Senate approval.

That may be chancy, however, since less than two weeks are left in this year's legislative session and Senate committees will not meet after today. Before a bill can be voted on by the Senate, it must get approval from a Senate committee.

Sponsored by state Rep. Gilbert DiNello, D-East Detroit, the bill would amend the Bingo Act to permit the state's more than 800 bingo licensees to use jar tickets in drawings which award cash or merchandise prizes.

Supporters said it would raise from $4 million to $5 million a year for the state.

But opponents said legalized jar games would eat away at the phenomenal success of the Michigan Lottery, which now raises $100 million a year for the state.

The state Senate meanwhile has approved a bill to regulate motor-assisted bicycles, requiring their registration and setting rules for their operation.

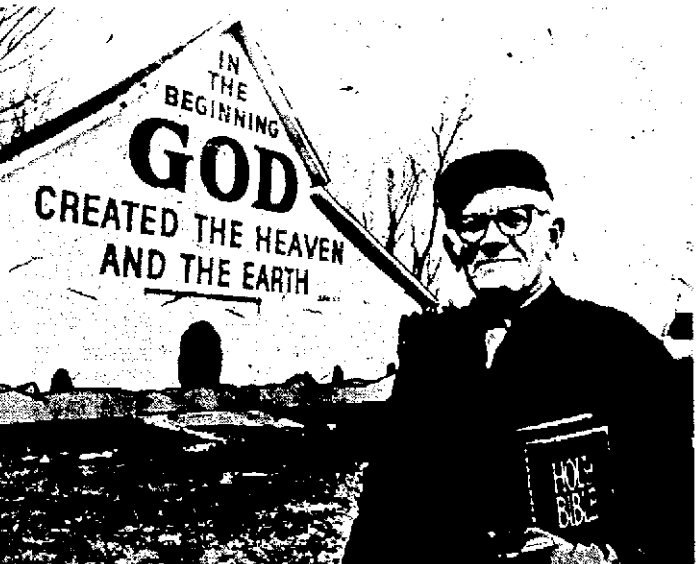

The bill, passed 30-0 Wednesday, returns to the House for agreement in Senate changes. The bill also would make legal thousands of small rental trailers which technically violate state law by not containing brake systems.

The measure defines motor-assisted bikes as those of less than one horsepower, and requires them to have identification numbers. The bill spells out other requirements, such as a stop light, a headlight, two brakes and a horn.

The measure also details operating restrictions. Operators would have to be at least 15 years old, and could not ride them on freeways or sidewalks. Owners would have to register the bikes with the Secretary of State.

The bill would also clear up the little-known illegality of many small rental trailers in Michigan. Under current law, such trailers as those rented by U-Haul are required to have braking systems if they exceed 1,500 pounds loaded.

Ford May Seek End Of Sex Bias In U.S. Projects

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As one of his last official acts, President Ford may ask Congress to outlaw sex discrimination in the multitude of federally funded programs reaching almost every American community. White House and Justice Department officials said Wednesday they are drafting legislation that would prohibit anyone receiving federal funds from discriminating against women in their employment practices and in any other aspect of their operations.

This would give women the legal protection that Congress gave blacks and other racial minorities in the 1964 Civil Rights Act. It would mean thousands of state and local governments and private groups receiving federal funds for public projects would risk losing money if they failed to treat women the same as men.

Jeanne Holm, the President's special assistant for women's affairs, said her staff has been working on the proposal for several months and she expects to submit a final draft to Ford soon.

In an interview, she said she hopes Ford will offer the legislation in his final State of the Union message before leaving office Jan. 20. She indicated many White House staff members favor such a step.

She said the legislation would "prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex or marital status" in any federal program of financial assistance. Assistant Atty. Gen. J. Stanley Pottinger, head of the department's civil rights division, told a news conference such legislation is a vital tool to protect the rights of women in some 400 federal programs spending about $30 billion a year.

Under present law, sex discrimination is banned in only 17 federal programs, including revenue sharing, highway construction and crime control. The hundreds of other programs offering federal money for schools and sewers, hospitals and drug treatment and all sorts of social projects contain no requirement that women be treated equally, partly because they were enacted before women's rights became a national issue.

Presidential aide Holm said officials considered seeking the ban on sex discrimination through an amendment to the 12-year-old Civil Rights Act but rejected that route for fear it would open the statute to all kinds of changes, some of them undesirable. Pottinger called the news conference to announce new regulations to tighten enforcement of the ban on racial discrimination.

"We hope the effect will be to make it clear to every recipient of federal funds that they have an obligation not to discriminate," he asserted. "I hope those who are discriminating will not get money." The regulations require the 28 government agencies that give out money to ensure that applicants comply with the law before approving grants.

Agencies must collect statistics about racial and ethnic participation in federal programs and must establish ways of monitoring recipients to ensure continued compliance.

Federal aid recipients must publicize the legal provisions outlawing discrimination and the procedure for filing complaints. In non-English-speaking communities, this information must be distributed in the primary language.

PRIVATE LAND

'Ask First,' Say Snowmobile Bills

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Operators of snowmobiles and off-road vehicles would need written consent before they could enter property owned by someone else under bills on their way to the governor.

The bills, aimed at curbing property damage by the sportsmen, won final legislative approval Wednesday in the state House.

which would have made them law as soon as Gov. William Milliken signed them.

Instead, the bills will take effect April 1, which some lawmakers complained was too late to have any impact on the actions of snowmobilers this winter.

Persons who violate the law would be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to fines of up to $1,000 or 90 days in jail.

Damman Aide Resigning

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — David T. Hayhow, 45, executive assistant to Lt. Gov. James J. Damman, has resigned effective Dec. 13 to enter private business. Damman said. Hayhow will be replaced by Charles E. Tyson, 32, a Grand Rapids native and former assistant to the speaker of the New York State Assembly.

Ford May Seek End Of Sex Bias In U.S. Projects

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As one of his last official acts, President Ford may ask Congress to outlaw sex discrimination in the multitude of federally funded programs reaching almost every American community. White House and Justice Department officials said Wednesday they are drafting legislation that would prohibit anyone receiving federal funds from discriminating against women in their employment practices and in any other aspect of their operations.

This would give women the legal protection that Congress gave blacks and other racial minorities in the 1964 Civil Rights Act. It would mean thousands of state and local governments and private groups receiving federal funds for public projects would risk losing the money if they failed to treat women the same as men.

Jeanne Holm, the President's special assistant for women's affairs, said her staff has been working on the proposal for several months and she expects to submit a final draft to Ford soon. In an interview, she said she hopes Ford will offer the legislation in his final State of the Union message before leaving office Jan. 20. She indicated many White House staff members favor such a step.

She said the legislation would "prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex or marital status" in any federal program of financial assistance. Assistant Atty. Gen. J. Stanley Pottinger, head of the department's civil rights division, told a news conference such legislation is a vital tool to protect the rights of women in some 400 federal programs spending about $50 billion a year.

Under present law, sex discrimination is banned in only 17 federal programs, including revenue sharing, highway construction and crime control. The hundreds of other programs offering federal money for schools and sewers, hospitals and drug treatment and all sorts of social projects contain no requirement that women be treated equally, partly because they were enacted before women's rights became a national issue.

Presidential aide Holm said officials considered seeking the ban on sex discrimination through an amendment to the 12-year-old Civil Rights Act but rejected that route for fear it would open the statute to all kinds of changes, some of them undesirable. Pottinger called the news conference to announce new regulations to tighten enforcement of the ban on racial discrimination.

"We hope the effect will be to make it clear to every recipient of federal funds that they have an obligation not to discriminate," he asserted. "I hope those who are discriminating will not get away with it." The regulations require the 28 government agencies that give out money to ensure that applicants comply with the law before approving grants.

Agencies must collect statistics about racial and ethnic participation in federal programs and must establish ways of monitoring recipients to ensure continued compliance.

Federal aid recipients must publicize the legal provisions outlawing discrimination and the procedure for filing complaints. In non-English-speaking communities, this information must be distributed in the primary language.

'Ask First,' Say Snowmobile Bills

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Operators of snowmobiles and off-road vehicles would need written consent before they could enter property owned by someone else under bills on their way to the governor.

The bills, aimed at curbing property damage by the sportsters, won final legislative approval Wednesday in the state House.

But lawmakers balked at giving the bills immediate effect, which would have made them law as soon as Gov. William Milliken signed them.

Instead, the bills will take effect April 1, which some lawmakers complained was too late to have any impact on the actions of snowmobilers this winter.

Persons who violate the law would be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to fines of up to $1,000 or 90 days in jail.

New Mexican President Calls For Hard Work And Austerity

By KERNAN TURNER
Associated Press Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico's new president began his six-year term by calling for hard work, promising to reduce government spending and urging business to help overcome the country's economic crisis.

Jose Lopez Portillo said in his inaugural address Wednesday that Mexico is faced with a period of austerity to contend with inflation, recession, unemployment, rising prices and financial instability, including the recent devaluation of the peso.

"We must recognize that crisis is not a fatal catastrophe if we employ our will," he said. "The gravest fact is that in the moment of deterioration, some Mexicans lost their confidence in the country, which is the same as losing confidence in themselves."

Leaders of the conservative business community welcomed his message.

"This is the message that Mexico needed," said Jose Represas, director of the Nestle company.

"Businessmen lost confidence in the previous administration, because of its excessive and sometimes foolish public spending," said industrialist Miguel Aleman. "Now we have

Italian Leftists Charge Payoffs

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — Leftist members of the parliamentary commission investigating the Lockheed payoff scandal united against the Christian Democrats to bring preliminary charges of corruption against former Premier Mariano Rumor, two former defense ministers and a former air force chief of staff.

Named with Rumor, a fixture in Christian Democratic governments since 1968, were former defense ministers Luigi Gui, also a Christian Democrat, and Mario Tanassi, a Democrat, Socialist, and Gen. Duilio Funari.

The commission action was a reflection of the strong position the Communists won in the June parliamentary election. Four days before the voting, the Christian Democrats were able to defeat a demand by the Communist that Rumor, Gui and Tanassi be brought to trial. But in the 10 to 9 committee vote Wednesday, the two Socialist members and an independent leftist voted with the seven Communists to charge Rumor, while only the member from the neo-fascist Italian Social Movement (MSI) voted with the eight Christian Democrats.

Only the Christian Democrats voted against charging Gui, and the votes to charge Tanassi and Funari were unanimous.

All four men have denied receiving any of the $1.6 million which a Lockheed memorandum, uncovered by a U.S. Senate subcommittee, said was paid to promote the sale of 14 C-130 cargo planes to the Italian air force.

The four were in office at various times during the late 1960s when the sale was being negotiated. Francesco D'Angelante, a Communist member of the parliamentary commission, reported in June after an investigating trip to the United States that Rumor was "Antelope Cabbler," the code name used by the Lockheed memorandum for an Italian premier involved in the payoff, and Tanassi was the bagman.

The commission said it was considering also bringing charges of fraud against Gui, Tanassi and unnamed persons outside the government.

The commission's charges were preliminary in nature because its investigation is still going on. The four men charged must now answer the charges before the commission, which will then recommend to parliament whether to initiate criminal proceedings. If parliament votes to prosecute, the case goes to the constitutional court.

Rumor, a former school-teacher from Vicenza, in northern Italy, headed six governments between 1968 and 1974 and was foreign minister in Premier Aldo Moro's cabinet when the Lockheed scandal broke. It was a major issue in the election campaign.

Finalist Ticket, Anyone?

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Anyone still holding finalist tickets in the Michigan lottery's President's Game has until Friday to submit a claim, lottery officials said. Those who scratched off "finalist" on their tickets won $50 and qualify for a Dec. 30 preliminary drawing. Persons who don't meet Friday's deadline qualify only for the $50 prize. Ten winners selected in the Dec. 30 drawing will qualify for the grand drawing on Jan. 30, which will feature a prize of $1,883,742 — the largest lottery prize in U.S. history, according to lottery commissioner Gus Harrison. The grand drawing at Cobo Hall in Detroit will also offer seven prizes of $10,000 each and two of $100,000.

Boy, 6, Dies In Fire

EATON RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A six-year-old boy died in an early morning fire that swept through his home Wednesday and left his father and a cousin in the hospital. Eaton County Sheriff's deputies identified the dead boy as Daniel James Wrigglesworth. His father, Charles, 36, was hospitalized in Lansing suffering from smoke inhalation. The 12-year-old cousin, Jack Brown, suffered smoke inhalation and frostbite, deputies said. Deputies said the fire apparently started near a wood-burning stove in the kitchen of the Wrigglesworth home in Windsor Township, about five miles northeast of Eaton Rapids. The house was described as a total loss. Mrs. Wrigglesworth, a school bus driver, was not home at the time.

State Parcels Out $30,170

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state has parceled out $30,170 in federal highway safety funds to four Michigan communities for improving emergency medical services. Gov. William Milliken said Wednesday. The money will help fund a hospital-ambulance radio network in Oakland County, upgrading of ambulance-hospital radio communications in Belding, two new ambulances in Ogemaw County and equipment to rescue accident victims from wreckage in Saginaw County. The grants, which must be matched with local funds, were distributed by the office of highway safety planning of Michigan State Police.

Ore Carrier Off Sandbank

ESCANABA, Mich. (AP) — The $86-foot ore carrier John Sherwin was freed from a sandbank Wednesday in Little Bay de Noc where the ship ran aground four days ago. The Sherwin, apparently undamaged, was pulled off the sandbank by the Coast Guard cutter Ascaia and a commercial tug, Loren Castle, the Coast Guard reported. Earlier, the steamship Buckeye unloaded some of the cargo of iron ore pellets from the Sherwin to lighten the grounded ship. The Sherwin, which took on its iron ore pellet cargo at Escanaba, ran aground Sunday shortly after heading for Conneaut, Ohio.

Gate-Crasher Is Thwarted By White House Barricade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government recently spent $550,000 fortifying the White House gates after a motorist rammed his car through the old wrought iron gates in 1974. On Wednesday, a Santa Fe, N.M., man drove his battered pickup truck off Pennsylvania Avenue and straight at the new solid steel gates in a bid to crash onto the grounds. The gates did not budge.

The driver, Steven B. Williams, suffered cuts and bruises. He was arrested and charged with destruction of government property. His truck's front end appeared to have incurred the most damage. Asked by reporters as he was taken away what his motive was, Williams pointed to the White House and shouted: "Trying to wake him up before he kills us all. Trying to wake him up before he kills us all."

President Ford was working in the Oval Office at the time of the mid-afternoon incident, officials said. He had no comment. On Christmas Day 1974, a man who said he wanted to deliver a copy of the Koran successfully crashed his car through a White House gate. Claiming that he was armed with explosives, the man kept police at bay for four hours before finally being arrested unharmed. Steel gates have been installed at several White House entrances. The old iron gates dated back to 1818.

Coldest November In 96 Years

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

After the coldest November in 96 years, Michigan remained in winter's icy grip during the first two days of December.

The National Weather Service reported record lows today in several cities.

Sault Ste. Marie, where November had averaged 5.5 degrees below normal, had a record low reading today of 24 below zero. That broke the old record of 8 below, set in 1940.

Today's reading matched a 1933 record for the lowest December temperature ever recorded at Sault Ste. Marie, the Weather Service said.

At Alpena, the Weather Service recorded a 5 below zero reading this morning, eclipsing a 1966 record of 2 below.

In Grand Rapids, an icy 36-year record was shattered today, when the temperature dipped to 5 degrees. The old mark for the date, set in 1930, was 8 degrees.

In Detroit, temperatures hovered at a comparatively balmy 20 degrees, but an inch of new snow snarled morning rush hour traffic on city freeways.

Blowing and drifting snow in southwestern Michigan prompted a number of school closings today, and travelers' advisories were posted for that section of the state through tonight.

The National Weather Service was predicting another one to three inches of snow for the Upper Peninsula today. That may not even be noticed in places like Houghton, with 23 inches already on the ground.

Pellston had a recorded snow depth of 16 inches this morning, and Marquette's snow depth was 12 inches.

Stage Ramp Rule Protested

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The owner of an adult theater says a requirement that he build a ramp to his stage for handicapped patrons in order to receive a license for live entertainment is harassment. John Barnum says since the handicapped cannot work as dancers, the move on the part of the city is harassment. Barnum has filed a $75,000 federal court suit against the mayor and city commission of Grand Rapids plus several city workers, including the city manager. Barnum contended city officials and employees are conspiring to deny a license for his Little Red Barn Theater and Adult Book Store. He said the $75,000 represented money lost because he cannot offer exotic dancers during the months of arguing with the city. The city claimed the ramp for handicapped dancers is required under a new state law designed to halt discrimination against the handicapped. The suit was assigned to U.S. District Court Judge Wendell Miles, but no trial date was set.

Teens Ask Hearings In Allegan

ALLEGAN — Two South Haven teenagers demanded preliminary examinations yesterday when arraigned in 57th District court here on charges of breaking and entering.

Scott Carrigan, 18, of 765 Phillips street, and Daniel White, 19, route 1, were arrested by state police from the South Haven post in connection with the reported burglary of a home on Blue Star highway in the Mt. Pleasant subdivision, Casson township, last month.

Each was ordered held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

In another case, Carrigan demanded a preliminary examination when arraigned in Seventh District court in South Haven on a charge of attempted larceny from a motor vehicle.

Troopers said the owner of a pickup truck interrupted an attempted theft of a citizen's band radio from his truck while it was parked outside a South Haven bowling alley on Nov. 27.

Christmas Tree Cutbacks

NEW YORK (AP) — This year's city Christmas tree is an apt symbol of New York City's finances — as unbalanced as the city budget and as lean as its purse. "Don't judge the scenery thing until we've patched it back together," pleaded a Parks Department spokesman after the tree was installed across from City Hall. "Some extra branches will be drilled in." Previous trees have measured up to 60 feet tall and 30 feet wide and have cost about $2,350. This year's is 46 feet tall and 20 feet wide and cost $950. The nursery that provided the tree explained that the city cut down on the size for economic reasons.

Delays Decision

NEW TROY — The Weesaw township board last night tabled for further study a Weesaw township fire department request for purchase of a portable generator.

Fire Chief Craig Smith said the generator would cost about $775. Township board officials said they want more time to look at need and cost figures.

The board did approve spending $280 for new fire hall ceiling and wall panels which the firemen are to install themselves.

hanging or the firing squad. The 39 men who have been put to death by firing squad all were seated and strapped in a wooden armchair with a black leather hood covering their heads.

But Gilmore told Bullock, "I don't want a hood on my head. I'd like to stand and not wear a hood."

"I doubt I have jurisdiction over that, but I will tell the warden about your request," the judge replied.

Gilmore, who has spent half his life in penal institutions, has repeatedly said he preferred death to a life in prison.

"It's a real frustrating thing to be here in prison," Gilmore is quoted as saying in a copyright article in today's Salt Lake Tribune.

"It is absurd, unreal because the people who work here are negative and afraid to make decisions until they are off shift or out of control of the area."

Gilmore also complained in the Tribune interview that he does not get clean clothes, has little access to the media and receives little information from outside the prison.

"Other prisoners are allowed to make telephone calls. I am the only one who can't make a telephone call out of here," Gilmore told the newspaper.

On Wednesday, security was tight at the Utah County Courthouse for Gilmore's second public appearance in two days. Everyone entering Bullock's courtroom was searched by a metal detector. A police sharpshooter with rifle and telescopic lens was on top of the building. Other officers were stationed at various points along the route Gilmore's six-car caravan took from the prison 30 miles away.

Utah County Sheriff Mack Holley said Benjie Bushnell, the motel clerk shot to death by Gilmore last July, lived in Provo and "people here feel very strong about" the case. "There are a lot of looks around these days, and who knows when one of them may land here?"

Handcuffed and shackled, the white-haired Gilmore appeared calm as he stood before Bullock.

"Unless you request otherwise, I will set the execution for sunrise Dec. 6," Bullock said.

"That's acceptable," Gilmore replied.

Utah County Atty. Noall Wootton has asked that the execution be held before midnight Dec. 6 to avoid problems with a state law which requires that execution follow sentencing by no more than 60 days. Bullock first sentenced Gilmore on Oct. 7.

If the execution were carried out, Gilmore would be taken from his isolation cell shortly before dawn and escorted to a secret spot on the 1,095-acre prison grounds.

A red heart-shaped target would be pinned over his heart and five volunteer marksmen standing behind a screen 30 feet away would fire their rifles at his heart.

Finalist Ticket, Anyone?

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Anyone still holding finalist tickets in the Michigan lottery's President's Game has until Friday to submit a claim, lottery officials said. Those who scratched off "finalist" on their tickets win $50 and qualify for a Dec. 30 preliminary drawing. Persons who don't meet Friday's deadline qualify only for the $50 prize. Ten winners selected in the Dec. 30 drawing will qualify for the grand drawing on Jan. 30, which will feature a prize of $1,893,742 — the largest lottery prize in U.S. history, according to lottery commissioner Gus Harrison. The grand drawing at Cobo Hall in Detroit will also offer seven prizes of $10,000 each and two of $100,000.

Boy, 6, Dies In Fire

EATON RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A six-year-old boy died in an early morning fire that swept through his home Wednesday and left his father and a cousin in the hospital. Eaton County Sheriff's deputies identified the dead boy as Daniel James Wrigglesworth. His father, Charles, 36, was hospitalized in Lansing suffering from smoke inhalation. The 12-year-old cousin, Jack Brown, suffered smoke inhalation and frostbite, deputies said. The house was described as a total loss. Mrs. Wrigglesworth, a school bus driver, was not home at the time.

State Parcels Out $30,170

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state has parceled out $30,170 in federal highway safety funds to four Michigan communities for improving emergency medical services. Gov. William Milliken said Wednesday. The money will help fund a hospital-ambulance radio network in Oakland County, upgrading of ambulance-hospital radio communications in Belding, two new ambulances in Ogemaw County and equipment to rescue accident victims from wreckage in Saginaw County. The grants, which must be matched with local funds, were distributed by the office of highway safety planning of Michigan State Police.

Gate-Crasher Is Thwarted By White House Barricade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government recently spent $550,000 fortifying the White House gates after a motorist rammed his car through the old wrought iron gates in 1974. On Wednesday, a Santa Fe, N.M., man drove his battered pickup truck off Pennsylvania Avenue and straight at the new solid steel gates in a bid to crash onto the grounds. The gates did not budge.

The driver, Steven B. Williams, suffered cuts and bruises. He was arrested and charged with destruction of government property. His truck's front end appeared to have incurred the most damage. Asked by reporters as he was taken away what his motive was, Williams pointed to the White House and shouted: "Trying to wake him up before he kills us all. Trying to wake him up before he kills us all."

President Ford was working in the Oval Office at the time of the mid-afternoon incident, officials said. He had no comment. On Christmas Day 1974, a man who said he wanted to deliver a copy of the Koran successfully crashed his car through a White House gate. Claiming that he was armed with explosives, the man kept police at bay for four hours before finally being arrested unharmed. Steel gates have been installed at several White House entrances. The old iron gates dated back to 1818.

Coldest November In 96 Years

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

After the coldest November in 96 years, Michigan remained in winter's icy grip during the first two days of December.

The National Weather Service reported record lows today in several cities.

Sault Ste. Marie, where November had averaged 5.5 degrees below normal, had a record low reading today of 24 below zero. That broke the old record of 8 below, set in 1940.

Today's reading matched a 1933 record for the lowest December temperature ever recorded at Sault Ste. Marie, the Weather Service said.

At Alpena, the Weather Service recorded a 5 below zero reading this morning, eclipsing a 1966 record of 2 below.

In Grand Rapids, an icy 36-year record was shattered today, when the temperature dipped to 5 degrees. The old mark for the date, set in 1930, was 8 degrees.

In Detroit, temperatures hovered at a comparatively balmy 20 degrees, but an inch of new snow snarled morning rush hour traffic on city freeways.

Blowing and drifting snow in southwestern Michigan prompted a number of school closings today, and travelers' advisories were posted for that section of the state through tonight.

The National Weather Service was predicting another one to three inches of snow for the Upper Peninsula today. That may not even be noticed in places like Houghton, with 23 inches already on the ground.

Pellston had a recorded snow depth of 16 inches this morning, and Marquette's snow depth was 12 inches.

Stage Ramp Rule Protested

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The owner of an adult theater says a requirement that he build a ramp to his stage for handicapped dancers in order to receive a license for live entertainment is harassment. John Barnum says since the handicapped cannot work as dancers, the move on the part of the city is harassment. Barnum has filed a $75,000 federal court suit against the mayor and city commission of Grand Rapids plus several city workers, including the city manager. Barnum contended city officials and employees are conspiring to deny a license for his Little Red Barn Theater and Adult Book Store. He said the $75,000 represented money lost because he cannot offer exotic dancers during the months of arguing with the city. The city claimed the ramp for handicapped dancers is required under a new state law designed to halt discrimination against the handicapped. The suit was assigned to U.S. District Court Judge Wendell Miles, but no trial date was set.

Teens Ask Hearings In Allegan

ALLEGAN — Two South Haven teenagers demanded preliminary examinations yesterday when arraigned in 57th District court here on charges of breaking and entering.

Scott Carrigan, 18, of 765 Phillips street, and Daniel White, 19, route 1, were arrested by state police from the South Haven post in connection with the reported burglary of a home on Blue Star highway in the Mt. Pleasant subdivision, Casco township, last month.

Each was ordered held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

In another case, Carrigan demanded a preliminary examination when arraigned in Seventh District court in South Haven on a charge of attempted larceny from a motor vehicle.

Troopers said the owner of a pickup truck interrupted an apparent attempted theft of a citizens band radio from his truck while it was parked outside a South Haven bowling alley on Nov. 27.

Christmas Tree Cutbacks

NEW YORK (AP) — This year's city Christmas tree is an apt symbol of New York City's finances — as unbalanced as the city budget and as lean as its purse. "Don't judge the scrawny thing until we've patched it back together," pleaded a Parks Department spokesman after the tree was installed across from City Hall. "Some extra branches will be drilled in." Previous trees have measured up to 60 feet tall and 30 feet wide and have cost about $2,350. This year's is 46 feet tall and 20 feet wide and cost $950. The nursery that provided the tree explained that the city cut down on the size for economic reasons.

Delays Decision

NEW TROY — The Weesaw township board last night tabled for further study a Weesaw township fire department request for purchase of a portable generator.

Fire Chief Craig Smith said the generator would cost about $775. Township board officials said they want more time to look at need and cost figures.

The board did approve spending $280 for new fire hall ceiling and wall panels which the firemen are to install themselves.

Gilmore To Die Monday

hanging or the firing squad. The 39 men who have been put to death by firing squad all were seated and strapped in a wooden armchair with a black leather hood covering their heads.

But Gilmore told Bullock, "I don't want a hood on my head. I'd like to stand and not wear a hood."

"I doubt I have jurisdiction over that, but I will tell the warden about your request," the judge replied.

Gilmore, who has spent half his life in penal institutions, has repeatedly said he preferred death to a life in prison.

"It's a real frustrating thing to be here in prison," Gilmore is quoted as saying in a copyright article in today's Salt Lake Tribune.

"It is absurd, unreal because the people who work here are negative and afraid to make decisions until they are off shift or out of control of the area."

Gilmore also complained in the Tribune interview that he does not get clean clothes, has little access to the media and receives little information from outside the prison.

"Other prisoners are allowed to make telephone calls. I am the only one who can't make a telephone call out of here," Gilmore told the newspaper.

On Wednesday, security was tight at the Utah County Courthouse for Gilmore's second public appearance in two days. Everyone entering Bullock's courtroom was searched by a metal detector. A police sharpshooter with rifle and telescopic lens was on top the building. Other officers were stationed at various points along the route Gilmore's six-car caravan took from the prison 30 miles away.

Utah County Sheriff Mack Holley said Bennie Bushnell, the motel clerk shot to death by Gilmore last July, lived in Provo and "people here feel very strong about" the case. "There are a lot of kooks around these days, and who knows when one of them may land here?"

Handcuffed and shackled, the white-garbed Gilmore appeared calm as he stood before Bullock. "Unless you request otherwise, I will set the execution for sunrise Dec. 6," Bullock said.

"That's acceptable," Gilmore replied.

Utah County Atty. Noall Wootton has asked that the execution be held before midnight Dec. 6 to avoid problems with a state law which requires that execution follow sentencing by no more than 60 days. Bullock first sentenced Gilmore on Oct. 7.

If the execution were carried out, Gilmore would be taken from his isolation cell shortly before dawn and escorted to a secret spot on the 1,095-acre prison grounds.

A red heart-shaped target would be pinned over his heart and five volunteer marksmen standing behind a screen 30 feet away would fire their rifles at his heart.

Carter Policies Could Produce Higher Prices For Natural Gas

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If President-elect Jimmy Carter carries out all his past energy proposals, the nation can anticipate higher natural gas prices, tight oil supplies and the revival of Appalachia's coal country.

Carter may not get to carry them out; Congress and circumstances may change his mind or thwart his plans.

In position papers and comments on energy during his campaign, however, Carter has laid out lengthy blueprints for his energy plans.

"The major thrust of the energy problem," Carter has argued, "should be away from oil toward coal and solar energy, with heavy emphasis on conservation."

"Whatever we cannot accomplish with these measures would have to be made up temporarily and as a last resort by atomic power," he said.

President Ford's administration has urged a doubling of coal production by 1985 and has moved to resume leasing of federal coal lands in the West.

"If there is a choice to be made," said Carter, "my own attitude would be to strengthen the production of coal in the Appalachian regions."

"You've got some very serious problems in the West," added Carter, referring to strip mining and other environmental impacts and the scarcity of water.

And Appalachia, where coal once was king, badly needs the economic revival that a new coal boom would bring, Carter pointed out.

The Federal Energy Administration estimated last year that eastern coal production would rise some 22 percent by 1980, but its share of the total market would slip from 78 to 70.5 percent as production races ahead in the West.

That potential shift represents some 46.6 million tons of coal worth nearly $1 billion a year, at recent prices, to the region that gets to produce it, and Carter seems to feel most of that business should stay in Appalachia.

Eventually, coal will be converted into synthetic oil and gas, Carter noted, but he suggested these processes should center not in the West but in the upper Midwest where water is abundant.

To stimulate natural gas production, Carter has favored removal of federal regulation over prices charged for new supplies by producers to interstate pipelines, at least for a five-year trial period.

The Federal Power Commission recently tripled the producers' ceiling price and estimated this would cost consumers an additional $1.5 billion in the first year — about $15 more each year on the average homeowner's gas bill.

If the same amounts of gas were deregulated entirely and climbed to recent unregulated prices, the consumer impact might hit some $2.35 billion, adding $23 to the average yearly gas bill, with further increases sure to follow.

To hold down U.S. dependence on foreign oil, Carter has proposed "a quota system that would keep imports at the present 40 per cent level."

But American Petroleum Institute statistics estimate that oil imports will average 41 per cent this year, and have been increasing 2.5 percent a year since 1968.

At that rate, unrestricted imports would supply 51 per cent of the nation's oil four years from now. A strict 40 per cent limit would amount to a self-imposed 11 per cent oil shortage by the end of Carter's first term — roughly equal to the worst of the Arab oil embargo of 1973-1974.

Carter has proposed a series of strong energy conservation measures, including: efficiency standards for electrical appliances; mandatory improvements in building insulation; a ban on advertising that promotes electricity consumption, and abandonment of utility rates that charge the lowest electricity prices to the biggest users.

Carter even has proposed "stand-by excise taxes" that could be imposed on selected petroleum products to reduce consumption.

Gasoline would be the prime target, as the petroleum fuel with the most flexible demand and the only major category whose consumption now surpasses its 1973 levels.

Carter has not indicated how large the excise tax might be, but past experience suggests it would have to start at several cents per gallon, at least, to have any substantial effect.

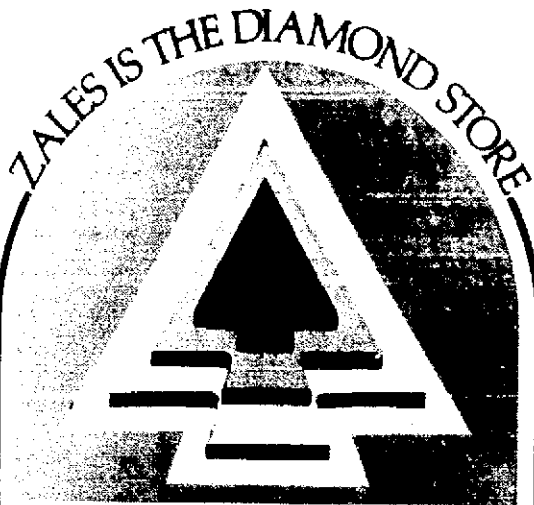

On the other hand, some Carter proposals would tend to reduce the prices of petroleum products, so the final consumer impact cannot be predicted.

Carter wants to encourage U.S. oil production, but has not said how.

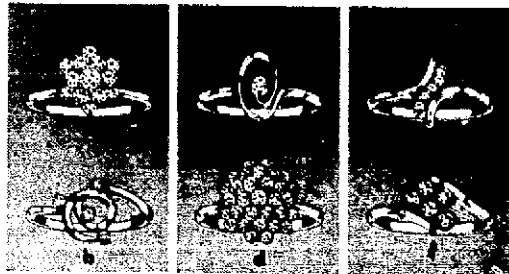

The encouragement might come through appropriate price regulations favoring new production. Carter opposed removal of price controls from domestic "old" oil, suggesting its price be held about $3 per barrel below international oil prices. New oil, presumably, could claim the higher international price.

To the extent that these measures still leave a gap between U.S. energy supply and demand, Carter said, nuclear energy would have to fill it.

Carter, who was trained in nuclear engineering in the Navy, has proposed strict, and probably costly, new safety measures: placing atomic plants underground; enclosing reactors in large, double-walled vacuum chambers so air would rush in through any break instead of out, and posting federal agents in control rooms, with authority to shut down a plant in an emergency.

Such measures might make nuclear power more acceptable to present opponents, but would increase the cost of fission-generated electricity.

Carter's energy package also included:

—A slowdown in development of the nuclear "breeder" reactor, which would both use and produce plutonium, a hazardous radioactive metal suitable for atomic bombs.

—A shift of research funds from nuclear power toward solar energy, conservation and cleaner ways to burn coal.

—Proposal of a five-year moratorium on all U.S. and Soviet nuclear explosions.

—Convening a World Energy Conference.

—Direct negotiation of imported oil prices by the U.S. government, rather than individual companies, with foreign oil nations.

—Consolidation of the Federal Energy Administration, Federal Power Commission, Energy Research and Development Administration and parts of the Commerce and Treasury departments, Securities and Exchange Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission and Nuclear Regulatory Commission into a single new department of energy.

—And consideration, though not immediate endorsement, of proposals to break up major oil companies or prohibit them from controlling coal, uranium and other competing fuels.

WISCONSIN: Beer, Cities, Dairy Farms

By ROBERT W. WELLS

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (NEA) — Wisconsin's first tourist arrived under a misapprehension. Jean Nicolet, who beached his canoe in 1634 not far from the present crossroads, they conclude that Wisconsinites drink more beer than residents of any other state.

A Milwaukee apartment dweller can be beyond the suburbs and into the countryside in a half hour. The annual deer season remains one of the year's high points for city and country dwellers alike. On a Monday morning, even in board rooms and company cafeterias, the talk is apt to deal with a fish that was caught or got away.

The last glacier, which pulled grudgingly north 11,000 years ago, shaped Wisconsin. It left rolling hills, 1,500 square miles of inland lakes, a legacy of streams where Nicolet's Indian crewmen would still feel at

Together with transplanted Easterners, the immigrant mix built a state which was the first to abolish capital punishment, the first to provide unemployment compensation, a pioneer in workmen's compensation, the direct primary and other social legislation now taken for granted elsewhere.

Strangers still have misapprehensions about the state. Because its license plates say, "America's Dairyland," they suppose Wisconsin is predominantly rural, which is wrong. They assume that Milwaukee's principal product is beer, which has been wrong every year except one, 1889. After noting the ubiquity of the taverns that provide the focus for city neighborhoods and rural

The small dairy farm is gradually disappearing, however. There are 26,000 left, but a like number of large dairies turn out most of the milk. Agriculture's 1974 income in the state was a mere $2.5 billion, compared with $21 billion for manufacturing.

Edison Customers Get Refund

By DONALD WOUTAT
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The first six-month review of Detroit Edison Co.'s expenditures for fuel and for power it bought from other utilities prompted the state Wednesday to order a $18.7 million refund to customers.

The order by the Michigan Public Service Commission was attacked by one of its members who claimed the refund was nearly $9 million too low and challenged the fairness of the entire procedure.

The refund order and a regular monthly PSC adjustment of Edison's rates mean the average residential customer's December electric bill will be 60 cents lower than in November.

The PSC ordered the biannual reviews when it enacted a plan last March to make monthly adjustments in utility rates.

Six-month reviews are needed to verify the money spent and taken in by the utility because financial data is incomplete when the monthly rate adjustments are made, the commission says.

Wednesday's ruling and a lengthy dissent by Commissioner William R. Ralls bared a split over the entire purpose of the review process. Ralls has consistently opposed the monthly adjustments in rates.

He argued that the review should have analyzed Edison's prudence in operations. If it had, Ralls said, the refund would have been $10.6 million — about five times the sum approved by the PSC.

Ralls, the only Democrat on the three-member PSC, claimed Edison miscalculated its April-to-September power needs by more than 1.3 billion kilowatt hours. The power had to be purchased from other companies for 60 per cent more than it would have cost Edison to generate itself, he said.

This added $8.78 million to Edison's cost of doing business. The commission voted to pass those costs on to the utility's customers.

Daniel Dentlow, PSC chairman, said about two-thirds of the extra refund urged by Ralls was a legitimate cost incurred when Edison was doing routine maintenance of plants and had no choice but to buy power elsewhere.

TRUCK STOP: With only three of its 18 wheels touching the bridge over the Des Moines river at Des Moines, Iowa, a semi-trailer truck balances Wednesday on the bridge railing. Driver Gordon Clemens escaped injury as he swerved his truck on the icy bridge to avoid two vehicles in another collision. (AP Wirephoto)

Pennsylvanians Puzzle Over Case Of The Missing Head

SHAMOKIN, Pa. (AP) — The local museum has lost its head — temporarily, at least.

The embalmed head of a man murdered 71 years ago — complete with curly hair and teeth, but missing the eyeballs — disappeared from display under mysterious circumstances after a judge ordered it buried.

"It's been a fabulous tourist attraction here, bringing people from all around to see it and the museum," said Dave Donmoyer, chairman of the Anthracite Heritage Museum in this mountain town 150 miles northwest of Philadelphia. Since the museum opened June 2, hundreds of visitors had come to view the relic, which was displayed in a glass container covered by a removable black cloth.

Last week, Northumberland County Judge Peter Krehel ordered the head removed for burial. County Coroner Ernest Kortin said he would have it cremated to rule out exhumation by curiosity seekers.

But before Kortin showed up, the head disappeared from display, and Donmoyer won't say exactly what became of it. Minutes later, however, Don-moyer denied knowing where it was. "It is not in the museum... It's missing... and that's all I'm going to tell you."

Asked whether someone might have hidden it out of concern for the museum's future, Donmoyer said, "That's a possibility.... We'd be sort of stupid to leave it there and let somebody pick it up."

The museum committee meets Dec. 8 to discuss possible ways of getting Krehel's order reversed. Kortin had planned to come for the head on Friday and send it to Williamsport for cremation, but he said Wednesday he would hold off until the controversy is settled.

The head was donated to the museum by a local mortician, and is believed to be that of a murder victim whose body was found alongside a road in Hickory Ridge in 1905.

Besides the head, the museum contains artifacts pertaining to anthracite coal mining, such as old photographs and miners tools.

Highway Safety Funds OK'd

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Federal highway safety funds totaling $187.775 have been approved to continue two state agency programs, Gov. William Milliken said. Nearly $125,000 will go to the state police program of concentrated traffic enforcement at dangerous locations. A $50,000 grant goes to the Department of State for its campaign to educate the public about common driving mistakes.

Edison Customers Get Refund

By DONALD WOUTAT
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The first six-month review of Detroit Edison Co.'s expenditures for fuel and for power it bought from other utilities prompted the state Wednesday to order a $1.87 million refund to customers.

The order by the Michigan Public Service Commission was attacked by one of its members who claimed the refund was nearly $9 million too low and challenged the fairness of the entire procedure.

The refund order and a regular monthly PSC adjustment of Edison's rates mean the average residential customer's December electric bill will be 60 cents lower than in November.

The PSC ordered the biannual reviews when it enacted a plan last March to make monthly adjustments in utility rates.

Six-month reviews are needed to verify the money spent and taken in by the utility because financial data is incomplete when the monthly rate adjustments are made, the commission says.

Wednesday's ruling and a lengthy dissent by Commissioner William R. Ralls barred a split over the entire purpose of the review process. Ralls has consistently opposed the monthly adjustments in rates.

He argued that the review should have analyzed Edison's prudence in operations. If it had, Ralls said, the refund would have been $10.6 million — about five times the sum approved by the PSC.

Ralls, the only Democrat on the three-member PSC, claimed Edison miscalculated its April-to-September power needs by more than 1.3 billion kilowatt hours. The power had to be purchased from other companies for 60 per cent more than it would have cost Edison to generate itself, he said.

This added $8.79 million to Edison's cost of doing business. The commission voted to pass those costs on to the utility's customers.

Daniel Demlow, PSC chairman, said about two-thirds of the extra refund urged by Ralls was a legitimate cost incurred when Edison was doing routine maintenance of plants and had no choice but to buy power elsewhere.

Pennsylvanians Puzzle Over Case Of The Missing Head

SHAMOKIN, Pa. (AP) — The local museum has lost its head — temporarily, at least.

The embalmed head of a man murdered 71 years ago — complete with curly hair and teeth, but missing the eyeballs — disappeared from display under mysterious circumstances after a judge ordered it buried.

"It's been a fabulous tourist attraction here, bringing people from all around to see it and the museum," said Dave Donmoyer, chairman of the Anthracite Heritage Museum in this mountain town 150 miles northwest of Philadelphia. Since the museum opened June 2, hundreds of visitors had come to view the relic, which was displayed in a glass container covered by a removable black cloth.

Last week, Northumberland County Judge Peter Krehel ordered the head removed for burial. County Coroner Ernest Korten said he would have it cremated to rule out exhumation by curiosity seekers.

But before Korten showed up, the head disappeared from display, and Donmoyer won't say exactly what became of it. Minutes later, however, Don-

Asked whether someone might have hidden it out of concern for the museum's future, Donmoyer said, "That's a possibility.... We'd be sort of stupid to leave it there and let somebody pick it up."

The museum committee meets Dec. 8 to discuss possible ways of getting Krehel's order reversed. Korten had planned to come for the head on Friday and send it to Williamsport for cremation, but he said Wednesday he would hold off until the controversy is settled.

The head was donated to the museum by a local mortician, and is believed to be that of a murder victim whose body was found alongside a road in Hickory Ridge in 1905.

Besides the head, the museum contains artifacts pertaining to anthracite coal mining, such as old photographs and miners tools.

Highway Safety Funds OK'd

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Federal highway safety funds totaling $187.775 have been approved to continue two state agency programs, Gov. William Milliken said. Nearly $138,000 will go to the state police program of concentrated traffic enforcement at dangerous locations. A $50,000 grant goes to the Department of State for its campaign to educate the public about common driving mistakes.

Aging Japanese Pray For Death At Nara Shrine

EDITOR'S NOTE — The elderly have become a serious social problem in Japan, and loneliness seems to be at the root of it — as evidenced by the number of aged people making pilgrimages to a special Buddhist temple to pray to die.

By SEIICHI KANTSE
Associated Press Writer

NARA, Japan (AP) — Elderly Japanese from all over the country are coming here by car and chartered bus to pray in a special rite at the Kichidenji Buddhist Temple for a quick and painless death. Standing before the aged pilgrims, the temple's priest recites a Sutra and then begins a singsong chant of their names, ages, addresses and common desire of a sudden "pokkuri" — passing.

Choetsu Yamanaka, 54, a cheerful, talkative man with hair cropped close to the scalp and dressed in priestly robes of blue silk, said every day 500 to 600 Japanese visit Kichidenji, better known by its nickname, "Pokkuri" temple.

"They come because they hope for a quiet, peaceful death," he said. "I try to give them a feeling of reassurance by saying that death is inevitable, like trees dropping leaves in autumn or cherry blossoms in spring."

Yamanaka, whose family has supplied the 990-year-old temple with priests for 21 generations, said many of the pilgrims ask the deity to take them away before they become a "burden or an eyesore" to their family.

Although the Japanese traditionally respect and even honor parents and the elderly in general, the rapid urbanization and industrialization of the postwar years have brought a weakening of the once close-knit family system.

More young couples prefer to live separately from their parents and familial ties subsequently may grow slack. An increasing number of the elderly, in a country which spends far less on welfare than most other developed nations, are forced to live alone, feeling unwanted.

The trend hasn't reached crisis proportions. But government officials consider it a grave social problem. Twenty-six per cent, or 490,000, of the aged live alone in Japan, according to a government survey.

Health and Welfare Ministry officials in Tokyo told an interviewer that "More and more old people would rather die" than continue to face such conditions.

They said the number of suicides by persons over the age of 64 jumped 31 per cent in the past five years to 4,671 while the over-all suicide figure in Japan increased about 25 per cent.

One of the poignant demonstrations of an elderly view on death is found at the temple at Nara, 200 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Mrs. Ishi Kakiyawa, an 82-year-old widow from Osaka, said she had been despondent for a long time. But after an afternoon at the temple, she said she felt invigorated and no longer feared death.

Yamanaka said the number of visitors has been increasing steadily since the "boom," as he called it, began five years ago. He said Japanese media "discovered" the temple here after a best-selling novel brought the problem of the aged to light.

"Man of Ecstasy," by Sayoko Ariyoshi, depicts the everyday life of an old man, senile and nearly physically helpless, who makes life miserable for his son and daughter-in-law.

In Tokyo, Dr. Hiroshi Moriya, 71-year-old lecturer at Juntendo Medical College, formed an organization of 300 elderly people who say they do not want their lives prolonged "needlessly by extraordinary artificial means."

He said medical science makes new discoveries every day and "doctors should not give up fighting until no illness is incurable."

"But each patient ought to be the first person to decide who decides to live or not to live. I think everyone has the right to die with dignity," Dr. Moriya said in an interview.

"As a doctor, I've seen lots of old people dying miserably — hooked to respirators, tied with many tubes, starting into space, apparently not knowing what the painful days at hospital were for."

He recommends that before an old person falls into a coma or in such a state where communication becomes impossible, he should ask family members or close friends to urge doctors to stop extraordinary medical care to maintain life where there is little or no hope of recovery.

However, his association is primarily a place for frank discussion of death, helping to ease fears and not to advocate mercy killing, he said.

"Some people come to look at me as if I were a hangman ... I'm against euthanasia and the association is certainly not an 'ubasute-yama.'"

"Dr. Moriya's idea is too simplistic and even dangerous," said Taro Takerni, 71-year-old president of the Japan Medical Association, the nation's largest medical organization made up of 85,000 doctors.

"Life of the elderly is no less precious than that of the young. It seems to me that it is medically as well as ethically incorrect to set an artificial age limit to a man's life," he said.

Congressman Is Backing Colleague For Ag Post

By PIET BENNETT
Associated Press Writer
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A Minnesota congressman, believed to be one of four finalists for the secretary of agriculture post in Jimmy Carter's cabinet, says he is backing another congressman for the job.

Rep. Bob Bergland, D-Minn., told a news conference Wednesday he is not seeking the cabinet post, although, "If asked, I would take it."

Instead, Bergland said he recommended Iowa Rep. Neil Smith to Carter aides "without reservation. I think he would make an outstanding choice."

Bergland said he was one of about two dozen prospects contacted and he understood from reporters he was one of four finalists. However, Bergland said he had had no contact with President-elect Carter or his aides since the week after the election.

If chosen, Bergland said he would try bringing some "business-like stability" to farm prices. He said that means "prices that are fair and reasonable to all concerned." Basically, Bergland said he has little criticism of the job done by former Secretary Earl Buttz.

"We thought Earl Buttz did about as good a job as he could do," Bergland said. When pressed if he would be critical of Buttz, the congressman replied, "Not particularly. No."

But he said he disagreed with Buttz's claim the food stamp program is "a haven for cheats and chislers." Bergland said a House Agriculture Committee probe he took part in found only about 5,000 of the program's 18 million recipients "could be honestly classified as fraud."

Bergland said he would suggest barring from the program any students except those heading households with dependent children, setting "strict limits" on the amount of real estate owned by recipients, and requiring them to sell luxury items such as snowmobiles.

The congressman, who was in Grand Rapids to address the Michigan Farm Bureau, said the greatest problem facing the nation's farmers is energy and its cost.

He expressed opposition to government-held grain supplies and crop subsidies while supporting some government role in international grain sales. Bergland worked in the agriculture department for seven years before his election to Congress in 1970.

Big Haul For November

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan state troopers made 2,262 traffic arrests and 1,124 criminal arrests on Detroit freeways in November, police said. The troopers started patrolling the freeways in late August on orders of Gov. William Milliken after the layoffs of Detroit policemen and an increase in freeway crime.

Smell Of Money Sparks Wheeler-Dealers In N.J.

By PETER MATTLACE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Behind the famous Boardwalk, the wheeling and dealing for financial position is on as this decaying resort city dreams of regaining its former elegance with the help of casino gambling.

"The scramble 'is now at fever pitch,'" said Albert A. Marks Jr., an investment banker who heads the Miss America Pageant here.

"But it should rapidly dry up into cold, hard business deals which should be the economic basis for the benefits of casino gambling," he said.

After New Jersey voters in the Nov. 2 election authorized casinos here, city officials predicted that gambling might begin by early 1978.

"I haven't seen this sort of optimism borne out by facts since 1930, when we were at the tail end of our heyday," said

Marks.

Already there have been these developments:

—A bill was introduced in the legislature to regulate 10-hour gambling and grant casino licenses to hotels with at least 100 rooms. Three existing hotels — Howard Johnson's Regency, the Dennis and Chalfonte-Haddon Hall — seem to qualify.

—National, Eastern and Northwest Orient airlines have applied for permission to fly to nearby Atlantic City Airport. Now only Allegheny Airlines runs a 49-passenger shuttle flight between here and Philadelphia.

—Resorts International will build a $50 million, 1,000-room hotel on the Boardwalk. It also plans to renovate the 1,100-room Chalfonte-Haddon, which it bought for $5.2 million during the summer.

—Playboy says it wants to open a croupier's school here and is thinking about building a casino-hotel. Playboy owns four casinos in Britain.

—The FBI says organized crime is already trying to move in on the local vending machine and garbage removal industries. This follows a visit by a Miami associate of reputed gangster Meyer Lansky shortly after the referendum passed.

—William Whitner, a Charleston, S.C., developer, plans to break ground next month for a 30-story, 600-room hotel on a choice Boardwalk location adjacent to Convention Hall.

Stable Car Prices For '77

DETROIT (AP) — A soft car market will keep the nation's auto-makers from raising prices again during the 1977 model year despite increased costs for steel, other metals and labor, according to a consensus of financial analysts. "I'd say categorically the auto companies won't raise prices," said Arvid Jouppe, an independent auto analyst in Detroit. "The market just will not take it." Price increases averaging six per cent for flat-rolled steel, which is used in cars, took effect on Wednesday. Analysts estimated the increases would add an additional $30 to the cost of building a car, which contains 3,200 pounds of steel and iron on the average. The auto companies have been mum about the impact of the steel hikes on their prices.

Dealers To Do Repairs

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. is recalling all 175,000 of its 1976 Chevrolet Chevettes because some of the cars may have loose fuel tank caps, which could increase the chances of a fire in an accident. GM's Chevy Division said Wednesday the caps may not seal properly because of excessive solder on the internal threads of the fuel tank filler neck.

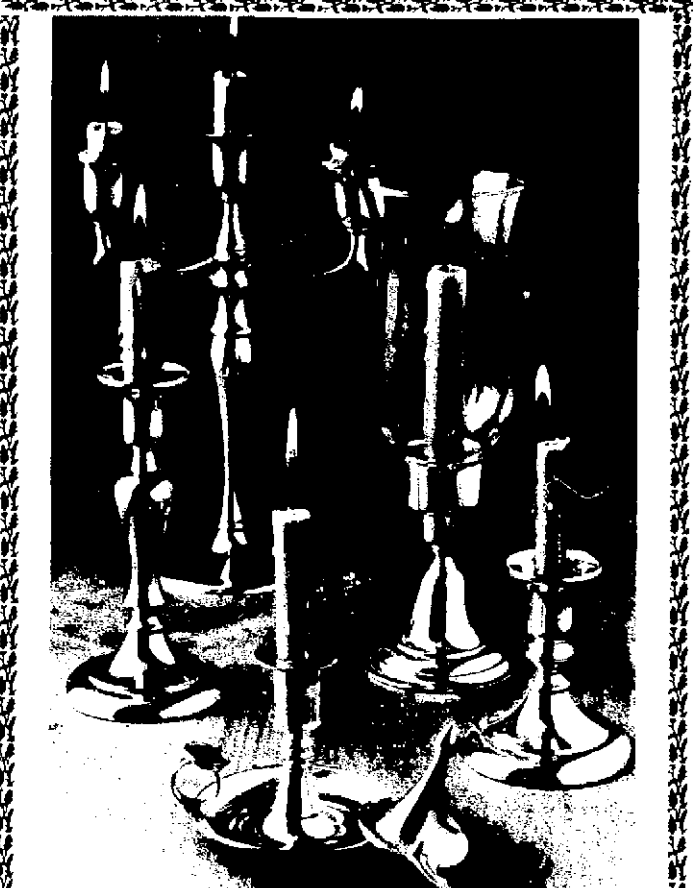

A Chevy spokesman said the problem could cause excess fuel spillage if the car were in an accident and "increase the chances of a fire."

The spokesman added, however, that Chevrolet has received no field reports of fires or injuries resulting from the potential defect.

Chevrolet said its dealers will inspect the cars and correct the problem, if necessary, at no cost to owners.

Cass Prosecutor Will Appeal Ban

By LARRY MACINTYRE
Staff Writer

CASSOPOLIS — William Grimmer, an assistant prosecutor in Cass county, said yesterday he will appeal a ruling that prohibits him from bringing the LeMunyon brothers to trial on misdemeanor charges of possession of marijuana in district court here.

Grimmer had sought to bring the three brothers, Terry, 28, Dan, 26, and Jan, 23, to trial on the misdemeanor charge after a mistrial was declared last January when the brothers were being tried on felony charges of possession of marijuana with intent to deliver.

The mistrial was declared after a Cass Circuit court jury deadlocked on whether the brothers were guilty or innocent of the charges.

Grimmer had sought a trial in Cass District court on the misdemeanor charges rather than a second trial in circuit court on the felony charges.

The ruling against Grimmer was handed down last week by Cass Circuit Judge James E. Hoff.

In his ruling, Hoff said that because the three brother were originally tried on felony charges, the prosecutor is now prohibited from reducing the charges to the misdemeanor level.

Hoff said he based his decision on a recent Michigan Supreme Court ruling in which the court held that a jury cannot consider finding a defendant guilty of a misdemeanor if he is being tried on a serious felony charge punishable by more than two years in prison.

The charges against the brothers stemmed from a raid on their Brownsville residence in June, 1975, during which police seized about 200 pounds of alleged marijuana plants and another 40 pounds of alleged processed marijuana.

Grimmer said he believes that if the ruling stands, it would cut into the prosecutor's authority to handle cases in the best possible manner.

He said his appeal was now being prepared for submission to the state court of appeals. Grimmer was elected prosecutor last month during the November general elections and will be sworn in next month.

The eldest LeMunyon, Terry, was an unsuccessful candidate for Cass sheriff in that same election.

Running under the American Independent party banner, LeMunyon charged during the campaign that the incumbent sheriff, James Northrop, was harassing him and his brothers with repeated drug-related arrests in an effort to impress county board members controlling the department's purse strings.

Northrop, a Republican, was re-elected by a wide margin.

HEAD-ON SMASHUP: Three people escaped serious injury Wednesday when this car and pickup truck collided nearly head-on at 3:40 p.m. on Pipestone road near Yore road, Sodus township. Berrien sheriff's officers said car driven by Tony K. Michael, 21, of 1188 Milton street, Benton Harbor, skidded on snow and ice on road shoulder and veered into opposite lane, colliding with truck. Michael and his passenger, Bennie D. Smith, 21, Benton Harbor, were released after treatment at Mercy hospital. Michael was ticketed for careless driving, officers said. Truck driver, Clarence E. Byers, 50, Eau Claire, was treated and released from Memorial hospital. (C.C. Brooks photos)

Cass Prosecutor Will Appeal Ban

By LARRY MacINTYRE
Staff Writer

CASSOPOLIS — William Grimmer, an assistant prosecutor in Cass county, said yesterday he will appeal a ruling that prohibits him from bringing the LeMunyon brothers to trial on misdemeanor charges of possession of marijuana in district court here.

Grimmer had sought to bring the three brothers, Terry, 28, Dan, 26, and Jan, 23, to trial on the misdemeanor charge after a mistrial was declared last January when the brothers were being tried on felony charges of possession of marijuana with intent to deliver.

The mistrial was declared after a Cass Circuit court jury deadlocked on whether the brothers were guilty or innocent of the charges.

Grimmer had sought a trial in Cass District court on the misdemeanor charges rather than a second trial in circuit court on the felony charges.

The ruling against Grimmer was handed down last week by Cass Circuit Judge James E. Hoff.

In his ruling, Hoff said that because the three brother were originally tried on felony charges, the prosecutor is now prohibited from reducing the charges to the misdemeanor level.

Hoff said he based his decision on a recent Michigan Supreme Court ruling in which the court held that a jury cannot consider finding a defendant guilty of a misdemeanor if he is being tried on a serious felony charge punishable by more than two years in prison.

The charges against the brothers stemmed from a raid on their Brownsville residence in June, 1975, during which police seized about 200 pounds of alleged marijuana plants and another 40 pounds of alleged processed marijuana.

Grimmer said he believes that if the ruling stands, it would cut into the prosecutor's authority to handle cases in the best possible manner.

He said his appeal was now being prepared for submission to the state court of appeals. Grimmer was elected prosecutor last month during the November general elections and will be sworn in next month.

The eldest LeMunyon, Terry, was an unsuccessful candidate for Cass sheriff in that same election.

Running under the American Independent party banner, LeMunyon charged during the campaign that the incumbent sheriff, James Northrop, was harassing him and his brothers with repeated drug-related arrests in an effort to impress county board members controlling the department's purse strings.

Northrop, a Republican, was re-elected by a wide margin.

CB Radio Sales Likely To Top $2 Billion This Year

By JOHN D. McCLAIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a late summer-early fall sales slump, more citizens band radios will be sold this year than in the 18 years since the general public has been permitted to use them, an industry trade group predicts.

John Sodolski, an Electronics Industries Association vice president, said 1976 sales will total nearly 10 million sets, more than double the number of CB radios sold last year.

Retail sales of radios, antennae and other accessories should top $2 billion this year, he predicted.

Sodolski said there are nearly 20 million CB sets now in use. The Federal Communications Commission said it has issued 7.5 million licenses, with the rate of applications continuing at about 300,000 a month.

Many CB enthusiasts install units in both their homes and their cars to enable home-to-mobile conversations.

The industry expects CB sales to continue to climb next year, Sodolski said, due largely to publicity since the growth of CBs began in 1973, new features and the expansion of the current 23-channel CB band to 40 channels next month.

Recent FCC figures show about 70 models containing the new 17 channels have been approved for sale on Jan. 1 when the FCC channel expansion becomes effective.

Sodolski said only three million CB sets were sold between 1958, when CB radio as it is now known was created, and 1973, when a combination of factors triggered the current boom. Sales in 1973 exceeded one million, then more than doubled each year since then.

But the FCC expansion decision and its initial confusion, combined with the usual late summer sales slump and supply finally meeting demand, brought about a halt in the rising rate of sales in September.

Nevertheless, Sodolski said, record sales in the first half of 1976 and the expected resumption of sales in November and December is expected to result in the 10-million-unit sales this year.

And he predicted a two-tier CB market in 1977.

"Twenty-three channel models will continue to be big sellers," he said, "particularly during the first quarter before supply of new 40-channel units catches up with demand, because of favorable pricing and a growing public realization that they represent an excellent pricing while satisfying most people's requirements in many areas of the country."

Sodolski said he expects a shortage of the new 40-channel sets early next year because of FCC rules that prevent shipping the new units to retailers until Jan. 1, and because of some industry difficulty in meeting new FCC standards required to lessen CB interference with television and other broadcast bands.

Nevertheless, the FCC said last week that 79 models had been approved for sale and testing of others will continue to determine whether they meet the new FCC standards and can be sold to the public.

Sewer Hearing Set For Jan. 6 At South Haven

SOUTH HAVEN — A public hearing to review the findings of a feasibility study for upgrading and extending sanitary sewer services in the city of South Haven and townships of Casco and South Haven was scheduled for Jan. 6 by the South Haven township board during its regular monthly meeting last night.

The federally-funded facilities plan suggests alternatives for sanitary sewer and wastewater treatment plant improvements in the South Haven area.

The hearing will be held at the South Haven township hall beginning at 8 p.m. Similar hearings will be scheduled by the city of South Haven and Casco township.

Old Navy Uniforms In Style?

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a glimmer of hope for sailors who long to go back to the Navy's traditional bellbottom trousers, jumper and white hat.

Adm. James L. Holloway III, chief of naval operations, has told the Navy's personnel bureau to take a new look at the uniform question, simmering since the old style was jettisoned a few years ago.

During Holloway's recent swing through the fleet in the Pacific, he heard repeated complaints from sailors about the new uniform of coats, shirts, black ties and peaked caps. "Wherever he goes, Adm. Holloway gets asked about the possibility of getting back to the old uniform," a Navy source said.

Officials stress the personnel bureau's look is just preliminary to give Holloway information on probable costs of returning to the old uniform or some variation of it, and to determine accurately the extent of interest throughout the fleet in making such a change. "Holloway wants to make sure it's more than a few guys who talked to him about it," the Navy source said. A basic objection to the new style uniform, its critics say, is that it is a bother to keep it in presentable condition, particularly aboard smaller ships that lack cleaning and pressing facilities. Sailors claim they don't have space to hang the new uniforms. The old outfits could be rolled up and stored in sea bags.

Some sailors, along with nostalgic ex-Navy men, say the bell-bottoms and the white hat made a smarter looking uniform. And there are chief petty officers who complain that the distinction they once enjoyed when wearing coats and peaked caps disappeared when all enlisted men began dressing the same way.

Dog Warden Injured In Crash

Benton Harbor police said a Berrien county dog warden's pickup collided with a car Tuesday about 9:15 a.m. at the intersection of Britain and Colfax avenues.

Frank Fardello, 29, of 4224 Bundy road, Hagar township, a Berrien dog warden, was released after treatment at Mercy hospital. The car driver, Guy Rufus Huddleston, 28, of 762 Colfax, sought his own treatment for apparently minor injuries.

Patrolman Ronald Piel, who investigated the accident, said both drivers claimed they had a green light. There were no witnesses, Piel said, and no tickets were issued.

POLICE ROUNDUP Boxing Gloves Top Stolen Items List

A part-time Benton Harbor boxing trainer told city police Wednesday 11 pairs of boxing gloves were stolen from his car.

Clarence Washington, 547 Niles avenue, said the gloves and a car jack were stolen from his car while it was parked in the 400 block of East Main street. Police said Washington trains amateur boxers in the Benton Harbor area.

Also reported stolen in Benton Harbor was a $200 tape recorder from the car of Terry Lindstrom, Muskegon, parked in the 300 block of Market street.

St. Joseph police said between $65 and $70 was reported stolen from Studio Tone photo, 417 State street. Owner Tone Marmora told police the cash was taken from a cash box near the front of the studio.

Benton Harbor police said a complaint was received of a man exposing himself on Empire avenue near Jennings avenue about 11 a.m. Wednesday. The man was described as white, about 30 years old, and left the scene in a gold colored car, police said.

Mrs. Laity Hearing Dec. 14

Second District Judge James Hayne of Hillsdale county has been assigned to preside over the preliminary examination of Mrs. Frances Laity, 76, charged with negligent homicide in the death of Wanda Davis, 12.

The hearing date was changed to Dec. 14 to fit in with the judge's schedule, according to Todd Barton, district court administrator. The case was originally scheduled to be heard Dec. 15.

Judge Hayne was assigned by Don Sherburne, southwestern Michigan regional court administrator, Barton said.

All five Berrien district judges have disqualified themselves from the hearing and an outside judge had to be called. Mrs. Laity is the wife of retired District Judge Harry Laity.

Wanda Davis of 847 Pavone street, Benton Harbor, was struck by a car at Colfax and Empire avenues in Benton Harbor Nov. 15 and died about three and a half hours after the accident.

Engineering of South Haven and John Kistler Associates of Grand Haven, suggests three alternatives.

The first would be for each municipality to treat their own wastewater.

Rehabilitation of the city's existing system would cost $4,614,200. The cost to establish a new aerated lagoon system in South Haven township would be an estimated $3,147,100 while the cost of a similar system in Casco township would range from $1,549,800 to $1,599,800.

The second option would be for two or three municipalities to treat their wastewater in a modified city plant. The cost was estimated to be $9.1 million.

The third option would be the construction of a new land application (spray irrigation) system to serve all three units at an estimated cost of $11,205,500.

The purpose of the hearings will be to receive comments on the plan and their environmental impact.

Copies of the plan are available at the South Haven township hall, according to Supervisor James Schnake.

In other matters, the board received a request from E-Jay Thermo Products, Blue Star Memorial highway, for assistance in receiving water and sewer service from the city of South Haven.

The board retained Rohleder and Suabedissen, C.P.A. of St. Joseph to conduct the annual audit.

The board noted that the township landfill will be open on the Mondays following Christmas and New Years since both holidays occur on a Saturday. Clerk Franklin Torp reported that he would receive tax payments according to the same schedule.

BROOKS: Drunk but sober

Richard Harris Dropped Role For Wife

Q: What was the nature of Richard Harris' illness that he had to drop out of the Ingmar Bergman movie that he was signed for? — P.R., Seattle.

A: As it turned out, Harris wasn't ill after all; he was trying to hold his marriage together. His wife, model Ann Turkel, has ambitions to be a movie star and Richard promised to do a film with her. When he accepted the Bergman assignment, "The Serpent's Eye," with Liv Ullmann, which he was eager to do, Ann was upset. So Harris gave up the part which was then given to David Carradine.

Q: Now that he's recently slashed himself up in rustic Vermont, what is Alexander Solzhenitsyn doing with all his money? I hear he's getting big bucks in royalties for his great novels like "The Gulag Archipelago." — A.A., Alexandria, Va.

A: We can tell you something you don't know about a cool half million of it. Solzhenitsyn has just used that sum to buy a rare Stradivarius cello from his friend and fellow dissident, the great Russian cellist, Mstislav Rostropovich, who is permanently "on leave" from the Soviet Union.

Q: You mentioned that Frank Gifford has been squiring Dinah Shore around. Does that mean the Bart Reynolds romance is kaput? — L. C., Detroit.

A: A good thing you asked, because Dinah and Bart have taken up where they left off. It's a big secret, since they ASKED: Guess who is becoming the number one pinup idol all over Europe? None other than British race car driver James Hunt. Jimmy, as you may remember, was married to Susan, who dumped him for Richard Burton. The handsome racer is fast becoming an international idol with a horde of pretty young fans following him everywhere.

Q: I've seen Foster Brooks' drunk act and wonder if he ever lives the part. — E. B., Warwick, R. I.

A: Foster is a very convincing drunk because he's an artist first and a teetotaler second, which adds up to some very persuasive but totally sober performances.

Q: My old favorite has always been Curt Jurgens. Where does he live now and is he married? — I.M., Wichita, Kans.

A: Jurgens lives in Nice when he's not busy on a film.

both left that all the publicity really hurt their relationship and they've both vowed that this time they'd keep low profiles and stay out of the public eye.

Q: I've seen Foster Brooks' drunk act and wonder if he ever lives the part. — E. B., Warwick, R. I.

A: Foster is a very convincing drunk because he's an artist first and a teetotaler second, which adds up to some very persuasive but totally sober performances.

Q: My old favorite has always been Curt Jurgens. Where does he live now and is he married? — I.M., Wichita, Kans.

A: Jurgens lives in Nice when he's not busy on a film.

He has just finished "The Spy Who Loved Me," in which he plays his umpteenth role as a villain. Jurgens has been living for the past two years with worse instead of better. Isn't there any hope of getting the broadcasters to understand we won't put up with it? — J. K., Denver.

A: One of the biggest ad agencies, J. Walter Thompson, has discovered through a survey that 35 per cent of you viewers have reached the point where you switch off violence on the tube. Whether this will do anything to alter programming, or the placement of commercials, remains to be seen.

Q: How is "The Late Great Planet Earth" doing? I seem to remember that when it came out six years ago, it was selling quite well for a religious book. — C. L., Harrisburg, Pa.

A: "Quite well" is an understatement. "The Late Great Planet Earth," which deals with the fulfillment of Biblical prophecy in modern times, has now sold 10,000,000 copies — more than any religious book in history except for, of course, the Bible. Latest news is that a film is due out in February based entirely on the Hal Lindsey volumes.

Rabin Sees Peace Move Next Year

PARIS (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin says he expects a major Arab-Israeli peace initiative next year, but he said that even without a formal accord Israel is ready to work with its Arab neighbors "on any aspect of economic cooperation."

In an interview with the newspaper France Soir, Rabin also said Israel is ready to make territorial concessions to the Arabs but will not return to her frontiers before the 1967 war. "I am sure that 1977 will be marked by a new initiative in view of establishing in what measure it would be possible to take a sharp turn leading from war to peace, to a peace confirmed by a treaty," Rabin told France Soir publisher Paul Winkler.

Jimmy, as you may remember, was married to Susie, who dumped him for Richard Burton. The handsome racer is fast becoming an international idol with a horde of pretty young fans following him everywhere.

Q: You mentioned that Frank Gifford has been squiring Dinah Shore around. Does that mean the Burt Reynolds romance is kaput? — L. C., Detroit.

A: A good thing you asked, because Dinah and Burt have taken up where they left off. It's a big secret, since they both felt that all the publicity really hurt their relationship and they've both vowed that this time they'd keep low profiles and stay out of the public eye.

Q: I've seen Foster Brooks' drunk act and wonder if he ever lives the part. — B. B., Warwick, R. I.

A: Foster is a very convincing drunk because he's an artist first and a teetotaler second, which adds up to some very persuasive but totally sober performances.

Q: My old favorite has always been Curt Jurgens. Where does he live now and is he married? — I.M., Wichita, Kans.

A: Jurgens lives in Nice when he's not busy on a film.

He has just finished "The Spy Who Loved Me," in which he plays his umpteenth role as a villain. Jurgens has been living for the past two years with worse instead of better. Isn't there any hope of getting the broadcasters to understand we won't put up with it? — J. K., Denver.

A: One of the biggest ad agencies, J. Walter Thompson, has discovered through a survey that 35 per cent of you viewers have reached the point where you switch off violence on the tube. Whether this will do anything to alter programming, or the placement of commercials, remains to be seen.

Q: How is "The Late Great Planet Earth" doing? I seem to remember that when it came out six years ago, it was selling, quite well for a religious book. — C. L., Harrisburg, Pa.

A: "Quite well" is an understatement. "The Late Great Planet Earth," which deals with the fulfillment of Biblical prophecy in modern times, has now sold 10,000,000 copies — more than any religious book in history except for, of course, the Bible. Latest news is that a film is due out in February based entirely on the Hal Lindsey volume.

Rabin Sees Peace Move Next Year

PARIS (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin says he expects a major Arab-Israeli peace initiative next year, but he said that even without a formal accord Israel is ready to work with its Arab neighbors "on any aspect of economic cooperation."

In an interview with the newspaper France Soir, Rabin also said Israel is ready to make territorial concessions to the Arabs but will not return to her frontiers before the 1967 war.

"I am sure that 1977 will be marked by a new initiative in view of establishing in what measure it would be possible to take a sharp turn leading from war to peace, to a peace confirmed by a treaty," Rabin told France Soir publisher Paul Winkler.

Lytle, Smith Make
All-America Team

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tony Dorsett, Pitt's fabulous running back who made the team as a freshman four seasons ago, was named to The Associated Press 1976 All-American college football team today along with three other great runners in a unique five-man backfield.

Joining Dorsett and riflebacked quarterback Tommy Kramer of Rice in the offensive backfield were running backs Ricky Bell of Southern California, Rob Lytle of Michigan and Terry Miller of Oklahoma State. Bell, Lytle and Miller were considered so even that it was impossible to separate them.

The only repeaters from 1975 on the first team were Bell and split end Larry Seivers of Tennessee. Dorsett made first team in 1973 — the first freshman so honored in 29 years — third team in 1974 and second team a year ago.

The AP All-America team will be seen on Bob Hope's Comedy Christmas Special on NBC-TV, Monday, Dec. 13, from 8:30-10 p.m. EST.

Coaches Bo Schembechler of Michigan and John Robinson of Southern California, the rival Rose Bowl coaches who each have two players on The AP

All-America team, also will appear.

The only other first-teamers from last year's first three teams were linebacker Brian Ruff of The Citadel, up from the second unit, and defensive back Bill Armstrong of Wake Forest, elevated from the third team.

Joining Seivers at end was Michigan's Jim Smith, a clutch receiver and gifted kick returner. The offensive tackles were Georgia's 253-pound Mike "Moonpie" Wilson and Oklahoma's 275-pound Mike "U.S.S." Vaughan. The guards were a pair of 250-pounders, Ted Albrecht of California and T.J. Humphreys of Arkansas State, and the center was 245-pound John Yarno of Idaho, who beat out all the backs and was named Offensive Player of the Year in the Big Sky Conference.

The defensive line consisted of 247-pound Ross Browner of Notre Dame and 224-pound Bob Brudzinski of Ohio State at the ends, tackles Wilson Whitley of Houston, 268, and Eddie Edwards of Miami, Fla., a 230-pounder, and 225-pound nose guard Al Romano of Pitt.

The linebackers were Ruff, Robert Jackson of Texas A&M and Jerry Robinson of UCLA, while the deep backs were Armstrong, Gary Green of Baylor and Dennis Thurman of Southern Cal.

Top-rated Pitt, runner-up Michigan and third-ranked Southern Cal were the only schools to place two players on the first team.

All but four members of the 23-man first team are seniors. Miller, Browner and Thurman are juniors while Robinson is a sophomore.

Dorsett finished the regular season with an NCAA single-season record of 1,948 yards. His 6,082 career yards was another mark, along with his 355 career points.

Bell, who missed setting a single-season record last year by six yards when he finished with 1,815, settled for 1,417 this year although he missed one game and played hurt in a couple of others. He carried 51 times against Washington State for an incredible 347 yards, just three short of the all-time record.

Miller rushed for 1,541 yards, second best ever by a Big Eight Conference runner. He was sensational in league games, gaining 81 against Kansas, 137 against Colorado, 159 against Oklahoma, 223 against Missouri, 149 against Nebraska, 221 against Kansas State and 189 against Iowa State. He had two other 100-yard games outside the conference and was named Big Eight Offensive Player of the Week four times in a five-week stretch.

Lytle, who played both tailback and fullback, is rated by Schembechler as the best running back he has ever had. Lytle was remarkably consistent and went over 100 yards eight times, including 180 against Michigan State, 175 against Indiana, 172 against Northwestern and 165 against Ohio State in the Rose Bowl showdown. His per-carrier average of 6.9 yards was the best of the four All-America running backs.

Danny Murtaugh
Remains Serious

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Former Pittsburgh Pirates Manager Danny Murtaugh remained in serious but stable condition today, suffering from a stroke.

Murtaugh, who led the Pirates to World Series championships in 1960 and 1971, was stricken Tuesday at his home in nearby Woodlyn and admitted to the intensive care unit of the Cruzer Chester Medical Center. A team of specialists examined him Wednesday, and a hospital spokesman said he was resting comfortably and able to talk.

His retirement this year was his fourth from the Pirates. Each time he went back to work, he replaced managers who were fired.

Breaks Hoosier 33-Game Win Streak
Toledo Tips Indiana

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Bobby Nichols described his victory in terms employed by coaches at every level, every day of the year.

"It was," said the Toledo coach, "a case of being ahead when it ended."

It was a very ordinary phrase for an extraordinary victory.

Nichols' unheralded team had just pulled off the upset of the young basketball season, beating Indiana's defending national champions 59-57 Wednesday night.

The Hoosiers had won 33 consecutive games and 67 of 68 over a two-year period.

Bobby Knight, a man whose very intensity seems to preclude the possibility of defeat, was his usual intense self after the stunning loss.

"We got outstuffed and I don't like to be outstuffed," said Knight. "It was their game from beginning to end."

Only one other coach whose team had gone against the Hoosiers since the spring of 1974 could possibly have made the comment Nichols made. And then the circumstances were unique.

Scott May, a junior at the time, sat restlessly on the bench, his left arm wrapped in a cast, when arch-rival Kentucky beat Indiana by two points in the NCAA Midwest Regional final in 1975.

The Hoosiers had won 34 straight going into that game. They had not lost since, their victories including two lopsided decisions over perennial champion UCLA last season and a rout of Michigan for the NCAA championship.

It was a championship team built on its ability to outdefend and outthrust its opponents, a disciplined team that always managed to win the close ones.

Until Wednesday night, when a younger, less poised team bearing the same name finally lost.

Fittingly, the star of the game, Toledo's senior guard Jeff Seemann, played the kind of game Knight must admire. He did not score a point, but was awarded the game ball by Nichols after a brilliant defensive effort.

It was just enough to hold off the Hoosiers.

Trailing 46-33 with 12 minutes to go, Indiana rallied and tied the score 49-49 with six minutes left. The Rockets ran off the next six points, gave four back, then won it with four free throws in the final minutes.

Stan Joplin led Toledo with 21 points and Dick Miller had 13 rebounds. All-American Kirt Benson topped Indiana with 17 points and 13 rebounds.

Elsewhere in college basketball, games went according to form. Second-ranked Marquette opened its season with an 80-39 rout of St. Leo of Florida; No. 3 UCLA walloped Jacksonville 99-48; No. 6 Nevada-Las Vegas defeated Oregon 78-67; No. 7 Louisville tripped Vanderbilt 81-76 in overtime; No. 8 Notre Dame outscored California-Poly 93-87; No. 9 North Carolina turned back Marshall 90-70; 12th-ranked Cincinnati humbled Wright State 129-52; 13th-ranked Alabama smashed South Carolina 90-66; No. 14 Wake Forest blasted East Tennessee State 94-63; No. 18 DePaul nipped Northwestern 75-73 in overtime, and No. 20 North Carolina-Charlotte ran over Eastern Kentucky 104-62.

Marquette held St. Leo to two points in the last 12 minutes and got 17 points from Bo Ellis and 16 from Butch Lee in defeating outclassed St. Leo.

Marques Johnson's 20 points led UCLA to victory over Jacksonville. The Bruins had a 27-point halftime lead and lengthened it to 37 with two minutes left in the game.

Nevada-Las Vegas whipped Oregon behind a 21-point performance by Glen Gondrezick.

Veterans Walter Davis and Tommy LaGarde combined for 33 points in pacing North Carolina over Vanderbilt. Brian Williams pumped in 21 points, leading Cincinnati over Wright State. Alabama beat South Carolina as Reggie King collected 20 points.

Skip Brown's 20 points led Wake Forest over outgunned East Tennessee State. Joe Ponsetto sank two free throws with seven seconds remaining in overtime, lifting DePaul past Northwestern. Lew Massey and Cedric Maxwell teamed for 43 points, leading North Carolina-Charlotte over Eastern Kentucky.

Prentice Named Coach

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — Former Detroit Red Wing Dean Prentice has been named coach of the Traverse City Bays of the U.S. Hockey League, the club announced Wednesday.

Prentice, a 22-year veteran in the National Hockey League, started with the New York Rangers and played for Detroit, Boston and Pittsburgh before retiring at the end of the 1973-74 season with Minnesota.

Marques Johnson's 20 points led UCLA to victory over Jacksonville. The Bruins had a 27-point halftime lead and lengthened it to 37 with two minutes left in the game.

Nevada-Las Vegas whipped Oregon behind a 21-point performance by Glen Gondrezick.

Don Williams connected on his first six shots from the floor and finished with a game-high 24 points, leading Notre Dame past California Poly.

Veterans Walter Davis and Tommy LaGarde combined for 33 points in pacing North Carolina over Vanderbilt. Brian Williams pumped in 21 points, leading Cincinnati over Wright State. Alabama beat South Carolina as Reggie King collected 29 points.

Skip Brown's 20 points led Wake Forest over outgunned East Tennessee State. Joe Ponsetto sank two free throws with seven seconds remaining in overtime, lifting DePaul past Northwestern. Lew Massey and Cedric Maxwell teamed for 43 points, leading North Carolina-Charlotte over Eastern Kentucky.

Danny Murtaugh Remains Serious

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Former Pittsburgh Pirates Manager Danny Murtaugh remained in serious but stable condition today, suffering from a stroke.

Murtaugh, who led the Pirates to World Series championships in 1960 and 1971, was stricken Tuesday at his home in nearby Woodlyn and admitted to the intensive care unit of the Crozer Chester Medical Center.

A team of specialists examined him Wednesday, and a hospital spokesman said he was resting comfortably and able to talk.

His retirement this year was his fourth from the Pirates. Each time he went back to work, he replaced managers who were fired.

Bruins Top Orr, Chicago Red Wing Rally Turns Back Vancouver

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

A game between the Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks has taken added significance ever since star defenseman Bobby Orr left Boston's employ and joined the Hawks as a free agent. Even if Chicago has not signed the Bobby Orr that led the Bruins to Stanley Cup championships, his presence — or non-presence — still is felt.

Orr picked up an assist against his former teammates Wednesday night, but two goals by Jean Ratelle and a solid performance by stand-in goalie Jim Petrie carried Boston to a 5-3 triumph.

"The news of our death was premature," chortled volatile Bruins Coach Don Cherry. "Just because we lost two games in a row I guess a lot of people started giving up on us."

But the Bruins did not give up on themselves against the Black Hawks, who now have lost five of their last six games.

"I sometimes get the feeling some players are just standing there," said Chicago Coach Billy Reay. "We certainly didn't get a complete effort from everybody."

In the other National Hockey League games Wednesday night, the Toronto Maple Leafs downed the Los Angeles Kings 6-3, the Philadelphia Flyers and Minnesota North Stars tied 2-2, the Colorado Rockies topped the Cleveland Barons 5-3, the New York Rangers beat the Washington Capitals 4-1, and the Detroit Red Wings downed the Vancouver Canucks 5-2.

In the World Hockey Association, the New England Whalers ripped the Calgary Cowboys 8-4.

Lanny McDonald scored three goals, helping Toronto extend Los Angeles' winless string to 12 games. Rookie goalie Mike Palmateer picked up his 11th victory in 15 games and was credited with an assist on McDonald's first goal.

Steve Jensen's power play goal at 8:22 of the third period gave Minnesota its tie with Philadelphia. Ernie Hicke had the other North Stars score. Paul Holmgren and Gary Dornhoefer scored for the Flyers.

Third-period goals by Chuck Arnason and Nelson Pyatt snapped a 3-3 tie and lifted Colorado past Cleveland.

Second-period goals by Carol Vadnais and Greg Polis, combined with penalty killing which held Washington to just one shot on goal during nearly six straight minutes of power play extended the Rangers' unbeaten streak to six games.

Third period goals by J.P. Leblanc, Michele Bergeron and Rick Wilson led the Detroit Red Wings to victory.

The Canucks had taken a 1-0 lead on Rick Blight's goal at 1:09 of the first period, but Detroit evened the score 49 seconds later on a shot by Walt McEchnie.

The Red Wings went in front 2-1 midway through the first period on Bobby Sheehan's goal from 10 feet in front of the net.

Vancouver scored the lone goal of the second period on Dennis Kearns' shot.

Leblanc's goal at 3:32 of the third period broke the 2-2 tie.

The Red Wings, on a two-game West Coast swing, have continued shuffling their lineup by recalling right winger Bill Lochead from the Kansas City Blues.

Lochead, assigned to the Blues Nov. 3, played 10 games, scored eight goals and assisted on eight others while with the Central Hockey League team.

Red Wings General Manager Alex Delvecchio said Wednesday he had asked to have right winger Brian McCutcheon put on waivers and sent back to Kansas City. McCutcheon played in 12 Red Wings games with no goals or assists.

Brad Selwood's goal keyed a three-goal second period which powered New England to its victory over Calgary. Warren Miller tallied twice for the Cowboys.

Tigers Make Cage Debut Against BC Central

The bell will be ringing and the siren roaring Friday night in Benton Harbor.

No, it's not a four-alarm fire, but the 1976-77 Benton Harbor cage team making its season debut against an always tough Battle Creek Central quintet.

Most of the other area teams will be involved in conference action. St. Joseph opens up at Battle Creek Lakeview while Niles travels to Portage Central in Big Seven games.

The Blossomland opens its season while the Red Arrow has its second full Friday slate of games.

The loud, raucous bell has been a symbol of Tiger basketball for many years. "We scouted Central Tuesday night and several people came up and asked us if we still had that bell," Benton Harbor head coach Earl McKee grins.

The Bearcats will come in with an inexperienced, but tall, club. The front line is made of Paul Nolin (6-5) at center and James Carter (6-7) and David Wilson (6-4) at the forwards.

The guards who started in Central's 55-45 win over Harper Creek Tuesday were Scott Williams and Rick McKee.

Benton Harbor will counter that lineup with center Derrick Joseph (6-6) and Keith Taylor (6-5) at one forward. The other forward slot is still up for grabs between Donald Green, Greg Childs and Reggie Smith.

The guards will be Charles DeFrance and the only returning starter, Steve McNutt.

"I think we have a speed advantage against Battle Creek,"

McKee states. "We will have to make them aggressive."

"Our defense and rebounding are things we are going to have to do well. We will have to box out and rebound with them. They have good size."

Coach Chuck Turner of Central realizes his team didn't play very well against Harper Creek. "We will be in for a long night if we don't play well against Harbor," he says.

The Bearcats had a field day rebounding against Harper Creek. "We outboarded them 2 to 1," Turner said. "We have pretty good size, but aren't muscular. We got good positioning under the boards."

St. Joe will be venturing into the "Land of the Giants." Lakeview could start 6-9 forward Mark Leighton and 6-6 Mike Meyer and 6-5 Stan Keagle will swing between center and forward. The guards could be 6-3 Matt Nelson and 5-8 Phil Brewster.

That quintet of the Vikings all have a ton of varsity experience. Leighton, Keagle and Meyer all started last season, Brewster started a few games near the end of the season and Nelson was the top sub.

The Bears beat Lakeview twice last season by scores of 78-60 and 74-73. The Vikings have already served notice that things could be different this year. Tuesday night, Lakeview demolished Pennfield 104-55.

Lakeshore and coach Lloyd MacTavish have had a week of practices to try and get back on the winning trail. "Our practices have been like a yo-yo," comments MacTavish. "Some moments we work real hard and then we go lax. Right now, we are striving for a consistent effort."

"Against Cassopolis we must do two things. We must get some better shots and play a stickier man-to-man defense."

The Lancers also have to work on their offensive rebounding. "We only had four offensive rebounds against St. Joe," he moans. "We are working on that."

Odell Brister turned in a good effort against the Bears, coming off the bench and scoring 20 points, and MacTavish indicates he may have a good chance of starting. "The problem is, I don't know whether to play him at forward or guard," he states.

When Buchanan hosts River Valley, the Bucks will be out to tie the league winning streak of 18 games. The record was set by Buchanan in the 1967-68 and 68-69 seasons.

Northern Takes On Akron In NCAA Semifinal Game

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — The Northern Michigan Wildcats are heading South for the winter — to Akron, Ohio.

With 12 inches of snow in Marquette and temperatures around the zero mark, Akron could seem like Miami Beach to the Northern Michigan football team.

The defending National Collegiate Athletic Association Division II champs are preparing for their semifinal match-up with the University of Akron on Saturday, in this year's round of playoffs.

"It's lots of fun," said Coach Gil Krueger Wednesday, shortly before bundling his team off to warmer climes. "I guess that's what we're coaching for — something like this."

"Everyone hopes and dreams for a national championship. We're very fortunate as coaches. Some guys never get a chance at it, but we've won one already and have a chance to go for another."

If the Wildcats get by Akron, Northern will face the winner of the North Dakota State-Montana State game for the Division II championship on Dec. 11 in the Pioneer Bowl at Wichita Falls, Tex.

"We have a lot more confidence," Krueger said. "Last year we didn't know if we could play somebody like Boise State or Western Kentucky. We were really apprehensive, but after playing them and beating them, we're a lot more confident."

NMU didn't exactly have it easy in its first playoff game this season. Northern beat Delaware 28-17, but only after scoring four touchdowns in the second half.

Krueger doesn't consider Akron, 9-2, any less of a threat.

"Akron beat Ball State and Ball State won the Mid-American Conference...so they've got to be pretty good," he said.

Northern Michigan has played Akron eight times and Akron has won seven times, so the odds are against us. As a matter of fact, Akron beat us last year. That was our only defeat."

Krueger says the Zips play exactly like Ohio State. "The play formations, the same type players," he said. "They hammer the fullback in there and then come with the tailback. They want to control the ball."

Akron Coach Jim Dennison, however, thinks his team is more like Michigan than Ohio State.

Throop Leads WMU To Win

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Junior forward Mark Throop scored 17 points in his first college start to lead Western Michigan to a 96-70 non-conference college basketball victory over Wisconsin-River Falls Wednesday.

Western snapped a 10-10 tie six minutes into the game and scored 11 straight points in the next two minutes.

River Falls' Ron Williams led all scorers with 18 points, while Dan McGinty and Larry Pittman each had 14 points for the Falcons. McGinty topped all rebounders with 13.

Dave Roland had 14 points for WMU, and Rod Curry and Mike Reardon both had 12.

Daniels Makes Coaching Debut In Bizarre Game

Technical Downfall Of Lanier, Pistons

From Associated Press

When veteran Mel Daniels came to the New York Nets' training camp this year, he was interested in playing center — not coaching.

But that is what he wound up doing for the Nets Wednesday night.

The chain of command did not have many links left after the officials got finished with New York, and Daniels was the next in succession at the end of a wild, 106-96 loss to the Phoenix Suns.

"This was a strange game ... a very strange game," said Nets Coach Kevin Loughery after the controversial National Basketball Association contest. "I didn't know what was going on out there."

Loughery knew even less after he got his second technical foul and was ejected with about four minutes remaining. Loughery, who had run-ins with referee Jack Madden in the old American Basketball Association, protested one of his calls with his usual ferocity.

Madden did a complete job on the Nets' coaching staff, also tossing out angry Rod Thorn, Loughery's assistant, at another point. John Williamson, one of the Nets' top players, protested too much and he, too, was thrown out during the argumentative game.

That left it up to team leader Nate Archibald to run the club, but when he fouled out at the end, Daniels wound up as the coach.

In other NBA games, the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Kansas City Kings 98-91 in overtime; the Philadelphia 76ers whipped the Denver Nuggets 114-102; the Boston Celtics tripped the Seattle SuperSonics 107-103; the New Orleans Jazz hammered the Milwaukee Bucks 126-105; the Houston Rockets defeated the Detroit Pistons 110-104, and the Portland Trail Blazers nipped the Indiana Pacers 101-100.

Paul Westphal scored 23 points and Garfield Heard hauled down 18 rebounds for Phoenix. Westphal scored 15 of his points in the second quarter, when the Suns broke open the game by outscoring the Nets 32-15 and taking a 57-40 lead at the half.

Bobby Smith powered a fourth-quarter surge that pulled Cleveland even at the end of regulation play and he scored six points in overtime, leading the Cavaliers over Kansas City. The Kings led throughout the game and carried a 12-point lead into the final quarter before Cleveland tied the score in regulation.

Doug Collins and George McGinnis triggered an early third-period spurt that opened a 15-point lead and carried Philadelphia over Denver.

Jo Jo White sank two free throws with 44 seconds left, breaking a tie and Boston hung on against Seattle. With nine seconds remaining, Boston's Sidney Wicks hit two more shots from the foul line. However, Seattle's Fred Brown hit on a jumper with six seconds left for two of his game-high 36 points and kept the Sonics within two. Wicks put in a final pair of free throws to cap Boston's scoring.

Pete Maravich scored 38 points, leading New Orleans over Milwaukee. The Jazz took a 55-45 halftime lead and stretched it to 19 points midway through the third period, when Maravich scored 12 points. New Orleans led by as many as 23 in the fourth quarter.

Technical fouls are proving to be the downfall of Detroit Pistons' center Bob Lanier.

Lanier spent the fourth quarter on the bench and watched the Pistons lose to the Houston Rockets.

Lanier was tossed out of the game just 1½ minutes into the fourth quarter after getting two rapid fire technicals from referee Bob Rakek. Detroit trailed by six at the time.

Lanier was hit with a costly technical foul Tuesday night when the Pistons lost a onepointer to San Antonio.

Calvin Murphy tossed in 29 points to lead the Rockets to their sixth straight victory.

"The difference in Murphy this year and last year is that he doesn't dominate the ball," Houston Coach Tom Nissalke said. "He gives it up and it makes him a better player."

John Lucas added 25 points for the Rockets. Lucas got 12 of his points in the third quarter when Houston overcame a one point halftime deficit and took a 85-76 lead going into the final quarter.

In the third period Houston hit 16 of 19 shots and once led by 13 points, their biggest margin of the night. Murphy had 16 of his points in the third quarter.

M. L. Carr led Detroit with 22 points and Kevin Porter had 17 for the Pistons. Lanier left the game with 16 points.

It was the fifth game in a row the Pistons have lost on the road.

Bobby Gross scored 23 points, including 19 in the first half, as Portland survived Indiana's ferocious second-half rally and edged the Pacers. Wil Jones had 22 points for the Pacers, but missed a 16-foot jumper at the buzzer that would have won the game.

HOLLAND — Leon Lewis pumped in 30 points and Greg Cole added 27 Wednesday night as Lake Michigan College nipped the Hope junior varsity 96-90 here.

Lewis hit on 14 of 19 from the floor, while Cole found the range on 10 of 15.

"Lewis and Cole were really moving well," LMC coach Lou Harvey said. "Cole used picks well, got open shots and made them. Lewis was really on the offensive boards."

"We finally ran our offense. We were very deliberate and did the things we were supposed to do."

LMC, now 2-4, never led in the first half but finally tied the score at 44-44 on Cole's jumper at the buzzer.

The Indians finally broke the game open in the final six minutes to take the victory.

Due to the suspensions of four players, LMC dressed just six players for the game. Also coping double figures for the winners were John Ervin with 13, Warren Harrison with 12 and Ray McClinton with 10.

Official's Goof Keeps Rutgers Perfect

NEW YORK (AP) — "I blew it," admits the official who called the bizarre 53-yard clipping penalty in last week's regionally televised football game that swung the momentum away from Colgate and may have preserved Rutgers' perfect 11-0 season.

"It definitely was not a clip and it cannot be a clip," field judge John Goldsmith, a veteran official, confirmed Wednesday after Colgate Coach Fred Dunlap said the officials "should be indicted either for their incompetence in not knowing the rule or indicted either for their lack of courage" in not overruling the call.

Moss turned to chase the bouncing ball and was pushed from behind by Colgate's Pat Moran, who eventually recovered at the Rutgers 18. Ironically, since it was fourth down, it made no difference which team recovered the ball and after the game Dunlap even called Moran's push "a sophomore mistake."

But Goldsmith had thrown his flag upon observing the push and informed referee Giles Threadgold that he was calling a clipping foul. Under the rules governing a loose ball foul by the defense behind the line of scrimmage before a change of possession, Colgate was assessed a 15-yard penalty from the original line of scrimmage and Rutgers was given a first down at the Colgate 31.

"My job is to go downfield on a punt, but when the ball went over the kicker's head I reversed myself and went down to help out on the play," Goldsmith said. "I saw the kicker get belted. I saw him get hit in the back and it looked a lot harder at the time than it did the next night when I saw it replayed."

"It was the first wild snap I had all season and it was a play you never see—a loose ball out in the open and the guy gives the punter a real shove. It didn't look to me like a gentle tap, and pushing or hitting from behind is a clip under normal circumstances."

Only these weren't normal circumstances. The rule book says that if "a player legally attempting to recover a loose ball uses his hands or arms on the back of an opponent to push him out of the way" it is not a violation of the clipping rule.

Now! Two big $253 Specials from AMC, the small car specialist.

Unlike the other manufacturers, who build cars of all sizes, AMC is exclusively a small car producer. Therefore, we have a lot at stake on the success of small cars.

Recently, the small car market has diminished substantially. Over the last five years, increased costs have forced prices up more than $1,000. As a result, American car buyers have pretty much stayed away, not only from AMC small cars, but from all small cars.

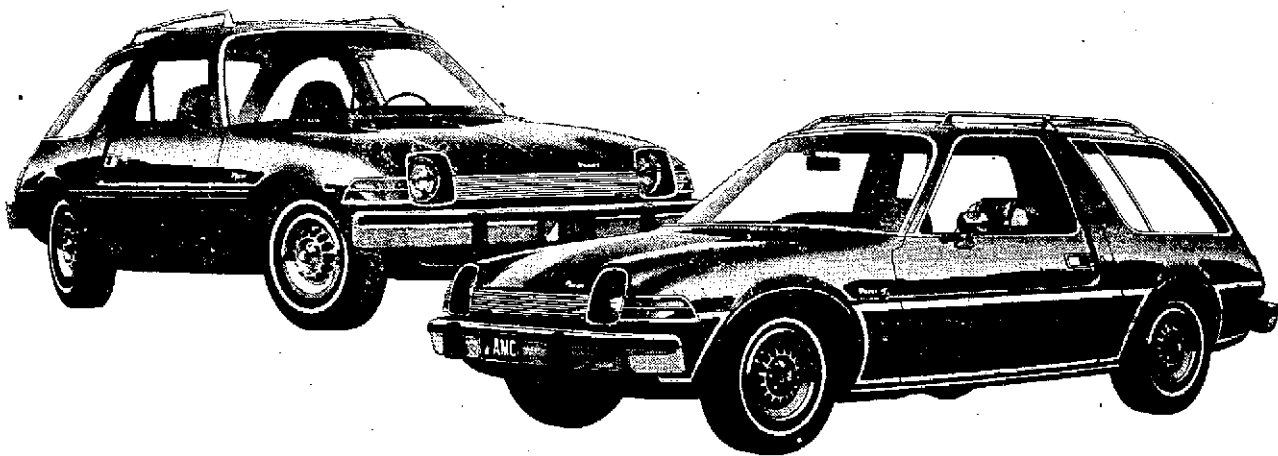

At American Motors, we're doing something about it. By attacking the problem in the most direct way we know how. By initiating pricing programs designed to save you a lot of money.

Our goal is to increase our sales volume by encouraging you, the car buyer, to return to the small car market. If we can get you to consider a small car, we're confident that the small car you buy will be an AMC.

1) $253 cash rebate on every new AMC Pacer and Pacer Wagon.

Right now, you get a $253 cash rebate when you buy any new 1976 or 1977 AMC Pacer. Make your best deal with your AMC Dealer and American Motors will send you a $253 cash rebate. Or, if you like, you can apply the $253 to your down payment. This cash rebate offer is good on all AMC Pacers and Pacer Wagons delivered from stock by January 10 or ordered by December 10. Excluding military and fleet sales.

2) $253 price reduction on every new 1977 AMC Gremlin.*

The list price of all 1977 AMC Gremlins has been reduced by $253. This reduction applies to all Gremlins now in dealer stock, and to all orders placed on or after November 5.

AMC Gremlin now only $2995.*

*The manufacturer's suggested retail price for Gremlin is now just $2995. Destination charges, dealer prep, state and local taxes, white walls, wheel covers and other options extra.

Official's Goof Keeps Rutgers Perfect

NEW YORK (AP) — "I blew it," admits the official who called the bizarre 53-yard clipping penalty in last week's regionally televised football game that swung the momentum away from Colgate and may have preserved Rutgers' perfect 11-0 season.

"It definitely was not a clip and it cannot be a clip," field judge John Goldsmith, a veteran official, confirmed Wednesday after Colgate Coach Fred Dunlap said the officials "should be indicted either for their incompetence in not knowing the rule or indicted either for their lack of courage" in not overruling the call.

With Rutgers facing a fourth down at the Colgate 46-yard line and trailing 6-3 early in the third period, center Ken Andorino snapped the ball over punter Joe Moss' head.

Moss turned to chase the bouncing ball and was pushed from behind by Colgate's Pat Horan, who eventually recovered at the Rutgers 16. Ironically, since it was fourth down, it made no difference which team recovered the ball and after the game Dunlap even called Horan's push "a sophomore mistake."

But Goldsmith had thrown his flag upon observing the push and informed referee Giles Threadgold that he was calling a clipping foul. Under the rules governing a loose ball foul by the defense behind the line of scrimmage before a change of possession, Colgate was assessed a 15-yard penalty from the original line of scrimmage and Rutgers was given a first down at the Colgate 31.

"My job is to go downfield on a punt, but when the ball went over the kicker's head I reversed myself and went down to help out on the play," Goldsmith said. "I saw the kicker get belted. I saw him get hit in the back and it looked a lot harder at the time than it did the next night when I saw it replayed."

"It was the first wild snap I had all season and it was a play you never see—a loose ball out in the open and the guy gives the punter a real shove. It didn't look to me like a gentle tap, and pushing or hitting from behind is a clip under normal circumstances."

Only these weren't normal circumstances. The rule book says that if "a player legally attempting to recover a loose ball uses his hands or arms on the back of an opponent to push him out of the way" it is not a violation of the clipping rule.

Marvin Barnes Could Be Placed On Work-Release

PROVIDENCE (AP) — A proposal that basketball star Marvin Barnes be allowed to serve a one-year prison sentence on work-release with the Detroit Pistons is being considered by his attorney.

Alton W. Wiley, the attorney, said Wednesday the request for the work-release assignment is one of several options he is reviewing that would enable Barnes to stay with the team.

Barnes, a former Providence College star, was ordered to serve a jail term for violating the terms of a three-year probation Tuesday after being charged with concealing an unlicensed pistol in Detroit.

In 1974, Barnes was placed on probation and given a one-year suspended sentence after pleading guilty of assaulting a college teammate with a tire iron.

Wiley said a new Rhode Island law allows first offenders to continue their education or work while being assigned to the minimum security section of the Adult Correctional Institutions.

Wiley also said lawyers for the Pistons may meet with Superior Court Judge Anthony A. Guannini next week and suggest that the judge permit Barnes to work with youth programs in the Detroit area.

Barnes did not seem especially concerned about the efforts being made by his attorneys to keep him from going behind bars.

"I told the lawyer just to let me do my time and not to appeal it," he said. "I didn't work out here so I'm ready to go tomorrow if that's the way it's got to be."

EMU Gives Scott First College Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Brian Schubert's short jumper put Eastern Michigan ahead to stay with 1:48 remaining Wednesday night as the Hurons nipped Cleveland State 72-69 in a non-conference college basketball game.

Eastern Michigan broke a 36-all halftime deadlock with 10 straight points, but the Vikings bounced back to take a 67-64 lead. Bill Harris and Schubert hit back-to-back baskets to put Eastern Michigan back on top and Dave Riddle, who led Eastern with 24 points, added four straight free throws to preserve the edge.

Eastern evened its season record at 1-1 and gave Coach Ray Scott, formerly coach of the Detroit Pistons in the National Basketball Association, his first collegiate victory.

Lakeshore Wins
CASSOPOLIS — Kevin Oliver scored 23 points and Phil Lancy chipped in 14 Wednesday night as Lakeshore's freshmen basketball team got by Cassopolis 58-50. Bryant Smith tallied 18 points for Cass.

Marvin Barnes Could Be Placed On Work-Release

PROVIDENCE (AP) — A proposal that basketball star Marvin Barnes be allowed to serve a one-year prison sentence on work-release with the Detroit Pistons is being considered by his attorney.

Alton W. Wiley, the attorney, said Wednesday the request for the work-release assignment is one of several options he is reviewing that would enable Barnes to stay with the team.

Barnes, a former Providence College star, was ordered to serve a jail term for violating the terms of a three-year probation Tuesday after being charged with concealing an unlicensed pistol in Detroit.

In 1974, Barnes was placed on probation and given a one-year suspended sentence after pleading guilty of assaulting a college teammate with a tire iron.

Wiley said a new Rhode Island law allows first offenders to continue their education or work while being assigned to the minimum security section of the Adult Correctional Institutions.

Wiley also said lawyers for the Pistons may meet with Superior Court Judge Anthony A. Giannini next week and suggest that the judge permit Barnes to work with youth programs in the Detroit area.

Barnes did not seem especially concerned about the efforts being made by his attorneys to keep him from going behind bars.

"I told the lawyer just to let me do my time and not to appeal it," he said. "It didn't work out here so I'm ready to go tomorrow if that's the way it's got to be."

EMU Gives Scott First College Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Brian Schubert's short jumper put Eastern Michigan ahead to stay with 1:48 remaining Wednesday night as the Hurons nipped Cleveland State 72-69 in a non-conference college basketball game.

Eastern Michigan broke a 36-all halftime deadlock with 10 straight points, but the Vikings bounced back to take a 67-64 lead. Bill Harris and Schubert hit back-to-back baskets to put Eastern Michigan back on top and Dave Riddle, who led Eastern with 24 points, added four straight free throws to preserve the edge.

Lakeshore Wins

CASSOPOLIS — Kevin Oliver scored 23 points and Phil Lancy chipped in 14 Wednesday night as Lakeshore's freshmen basketball team got top Casopolis 58-50. Bryant Smith tallied 18 points for Cass.

Poinsettia Sets Opening Round

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Furman will face Navy and The Citadel will play Columbia University in the first round of the 17th Poinsettia Classic basketball tournament Dec. 28.

Officials at Furman, which hosts the event, said Wednesday that Columbia and The Citadel will play in the opening game of a semifinal doubleheader. The semifinal winners will meet for the championship Dec. 29.

It will be the first time Navy and Columbia have appeared in the tournament. Furman has won it three times and The Citadel has won it twice.

Lawton Downed By Centreville

LAWTON — Centreville cashed in on 22 of 36 free throw tries as it downed Lawton 54-47 here in a non-league high school basketball game Tuesday night.

In the closely called game, both teams were whistled for 31 fouls. The Blue Devils had four players foul out and Centreville had two.

John Lepley notched 15 points for Lawton, now 0-2 on the season.

The Blue Devils made 16 of 40 from the field (40 per cent) while their opponent hit on 16 of 65 (24.6). But Lawton only made 15 of 28 free throw tries (54 per cent).

Centreville outrebounded Lawton 41-23. Grossman had 12 for the winners and Lepley 10 for the losers.

Seafarer Controversy Simmering In Upper Peninsula

By MICHAEL L. GRACZYK
Associated Press Writer
MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — A long-simmering controversy in Michigan's Upper Peninsula has pitted big government against residents and environmentalists.

The U.S. Navy has selected the area, known for its wilderness preserves and vacation hideaways, as a prime site for the proposed underground communications grid it calls Project Seafarer.

Seafarer would consist of buried cables screening part of the central U.P. The Navy says with the grid, it could communicate with new deep-running nuclear-powered Trident submarines.

But many residents in communities where the project would be built say their main fear is the project would disrupt the near-wilderness area they call home.

Michigan Gov. William Milliken, who more than a year ago invited the Navy to take a look at the U.P. as a possible site for Seafarer, insists he has ultimate veto power over the project.

"If the Navy wants it that bad, they'll put it in no matter what anyone says," contends 43-year-old Negaunee fireman Ken Paulson.

Environmentalists insist the system will give off harmful radiation and cause the peaceful Upper Peninsula to be singled out as a nuclear target. But few residents said they feared radiation, while many explained they realize the U.P. — with two Air Force bases, the Soo Locks and countless iron mines — already is a potential nuclear presenting it to the U.P. citizenry. "The Domesday Project is a misconception," says Sam Elder, 35, a Marquette real estate broker. "We're already a nuclear target. But if there's the system would work. The Navy already is operating a test site near Clam Lake, Wis., at the western edge of the U.P. Officials there say they've been able to establish contact with U.S. submarines halfway reservations." But many people have reservations and challenge the government's priorities, the cost and the utility of Seafarer. "We need so many other things up here," says Kathy Palluconi of Ralph. "The money could be put to so much better use, like special education for handicapped kids, for drug education."

The Navy says its plan for Seafarer excludes "environmentally sensitive areas, such as wetlands, forest and deer park areas where possible." One area avoided is the Huron Mountain Club, northwest of Marquette along Lake Superior. Local residents describe the club as a "millionaires' hideaway."

The Navy contends the area was spared the underground cables because "it has many rock outcroppings and mountains with slopes exceeding 21 per cent. An additional consideration is the deer parks in the club area." Many U.P. residents were upset after learning the club would be excluded from Seafarer, while an Indian reservation at L'Anse would be included.

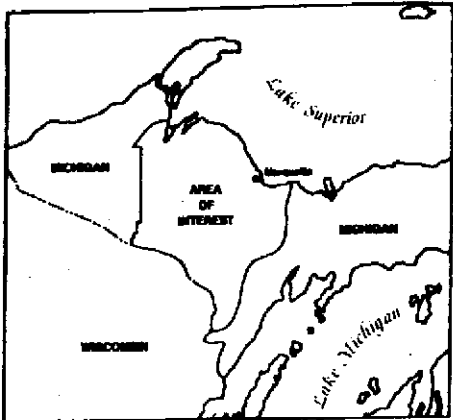

The cable itself, the Navy says, would be inserted into the earth through use of a vibratory plow, which cuts a narrow slit, installs the cable and then closes the slit — all in one operation.

"Vibratory plow minimizes both the short-term and long-term environmental impact usually associated with construction projects," the Navy says.

While the cable is only inches in diameter, the plow needs at least a 10-foot-wide path in which to work. So in areas where no easement is available, a 10-foot-wide swath will have to be cut.

The Navy in 1973 tried and failed to put Seafarer's predecessor, Project Sanguine, in Wisconsin and Texas. The twin defeats prompted the Navy to revise the project and it came back in 1975 with a scaled-down Sanguine called Seafarer.

The Navy got its foot in Michigan's door when a task force appointed by Gov. Milliken to study Seafarer approved an invitation for the Navy and asked an environmental impact statement be drawn up. A draft of that statement is expected to be released in December. Despite the opposition to Seafarer, some people feel further fight is nearly useless. "If the Navy wants it bad enough, I guess it will go in," says Bob Hallinen of Treenary.

target. The Navy insists the project is "vital to our national security." The one-way system would allow the Navy to transmit the final attack command to submerged submarines. Critics label it a "doomsday device."

Building Seafarer in Michigan would cost $570 million. The Navy says it wants to bury 2,455 miles of two-inch cable about six feet underground. The cables would be laid an average of four miles apart.

The Navy says 65 per cent of the system would follow existing 15-to 25-foot easements. It's the other 35 per cent that is causing problems for U.P. residents.

"We're being carved up," says Don Kiliska, 55, of Ishpeming. "This is a wilderness area. We've hunted here, fished here, have our favorite spots. Cutting a wide swath through here won't be very scenic."

Not all residents are opposed to Seafarer, but many say they don't like the way the Navy is any danger, the Navy should let the people know. I think people don't really know and they have a fear of the unknown. We're getting propaganda from the environmentalists and from the supporters."

Public opinion is strongly against the project in Upper Peninsula counties that have voted on it. The margin of opposition ran 10-1 in Marquette County, the U.P.'s most populous area.

Seafarer is described by the Navy as an Extremely Low Frequency (ELF) system. The U.P. is a proposed site because the Navy says ELF waves are best transmitted through its geologic bed of dry, hard low-conductivity rock. The Navy contends radiation given off by the system is less than that emitted by ordinary electrical power cables.

Remote areas of Nevada and New Mexico are also being studied as possible Seafarer sites. But testimony earlier this year before a House Armed Services subcommittee indicated neither is as desirable as the U.P.

"We have substantiated that there is a significant cost savings associated with placing Seafarer in Michigan," said Navy Capt. Charles Pollak said, according to a congressional report.

Environmentalists in Upper Michigan contend at least two research reports show persons exposed to ELF magnetic fields have a higher rate of health problems contributing to heart disease. But the Navy says the tests were inconclusive.

The Upper Peninsula is heavily forested and hilly. Mining and lumbering are the chief industries with tourism also counted on to bring in dollars. Unemployment remains in double digits, according to state figures, and some people look at Seafarer to ease the job pinch.

The Navy says about 600 persons would be used during the two-year construction period and the work force "would be increased to about 1,500 persons during the peak summer months construction period." Once the cable is laid and five planned transmitter sites constructed, "Between 60 and 100 civilian personnel would be required to operate and maintain the system," the Navy says. One key question is whether around the world. To be sure the proposed Michigan system would work, the Navy wants to construct a test site at K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base near Marquette.

But funding for the test has been scrapped from this year's Defense Department budget, leaving the whole idea in limbo. "The Navy people were briefly on the base but everything's indefinite," says Col. William Norris, K.I. Sawyer base commander. "Nothing is firm. They were only courtesy visits."

Norris says if the test transmitter is installed, "It would be like any other tenant on the base. I have absolutely no

FOR VAN BUREN COUNTY

School Board Association Eyed

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

LAWRENCE — The Van Buren Intermediate school board agreed informally Wednesday night to investigate the possibility of forming a county association of boards of education. Supt. Ernest J. Shaw said he felt organizing a county association would be more effective than joining an existing organization such as the Berrien-Cass school board association. He said he has asked each of the superintendents of the county's local districts to discuss the matter with their respective boards. Intermediate board members indicated last night that a county association would provide a framework for dealing with problems common to each board.

In other areas, the board approved a policy on field trips which would require the sponsor to submit a list of objectives, benefits, and manner of funding for all trips that were overnight or required more than two hours of travel time. In most instances, trips would require district certified bus drivers. Shaw was given permission by the board to attend a four-day conference of the American Association of School Administrators in Las Vegas next February. He will be appearing on a panel discussion on solar energy. The intermediate district has applied for a federal grant to partially beat with solar panels its new school for the handicapped. The board accepted the resignation of Leslie Stark, instructor in the small engine repair program at the Skills center. Richard Miller, Lawrence, was hired to replace him at an annual salary of $10,319. The board also voted to move its January meeting from the fifth to the 12th to avoid a conflict with the holidays.

Oft-Delayed Cleanout Of Drain To Get Underway In Van Buren

PAW PAW — After three years of controversy, work on cleaning out a 2.5 mile section of the Gates drain in Paw Paw and Decatur townships is finally scheduled to get underway the middle of this month.

Elmyra Hearn, Van Buren county drain commissioner, said yesterday the $81,000 project is expected to be finished by the end of May.

Masons Will Install Officers At Lawrence

LAWRENCE — Lawrence Rising Sun Masonic Lodge 119 will hold a public installation for 1977 officers Dec. 8 at 8 p.m. at the lodge. Robert Austin is to be installed as worshipful master of the lodge.

Work will include removal of snags and sediment and selective cutting of some trees and brush along the bank.

The costs of the project will be paid through a special assessment to about 1,000 property owners in the drainage district in parts of Antwerp, Decatur, Paw Paw, and Porter townships. Assessments may be reviewed in the drain commissioner's office from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday.

The drain is the west branch of the Paw Paw river and stretches for 5.5 miles in all. A group of farmers petitioned for a cleanout in 1973 to help alleviate seasonal flooding, and the project was approved by a board of determination.

However, in the spring of 1975, Dr. Charles Tenflobout of Paw Paw, Paw Paw township, and the Paw Paw Conservation club filed suit to stop the work. They were later joined by the villages of Paw Paw and Lawton. Opponents of the project argued that the drain, which is a designated trout stream, would be damaged environmentally. They also claimed the project would add silt to Maple Lake in Paw Paw into which it flows, and that an unfair share of the cost would fall on those who would receive very little actual benefit.

In June, 1975, then Van Buren Circuit Court Judge David Anderson, Jr. issued a temporary restraining order against the project. Anderson later withdrew from the case because he lives on Maple Lake in the drainage area.

This past May, Judge James Hoff of Cass county barred the cleanout on the grounds that the village of Paw Paw was not notified of the meeting of the original board of determination in 1973 as required.

and on June 29 a new board of determination approved it.

Mrs. Hearn said the work will be done between 78th avenue in Decatur township and CR-358 in Paw Paw township. The only major change from the way the project, was originally set up is that two permanent sediment basins will be installed, she said. They are to be located just north of CR-358 and north of the I-94 bridge.

A bid of $46,967 by Bernard Thomas and Sons, Decatur, the low among three submitted, has been accepted for the work. Mrs. Hearn said the remainder of the $81,000 cost is in publishing costs, attorney's fees, engineering work, pay for the two boards of determination, and fees to Walter Morris, Allegan county drain commissioner.

Morris handled the spread of assessments because Mrs. Hearn has relatives in the drainage district.

FOR VAN BUREN COUNTY

School Board Association Eyed

Paw Paw Bureau

LAWRENCE — The Van Buren Intermediate school board agreed informally Wednesday night to investigate the possibility of forming a county association of boards of education. Supt. Ernest J. Shaw said he felt organizing a county association would be more effective than joining an existing organization such as the Berrien-Cass school board association. He said he has asked each of the superintendents of the county's local districts to discuss the matter with their respective boards. Intermediate board members indicated last night that a county association would provide a framework for dealing with problems common to each board.

In other areas, the board approved a policy on field trips which would require the sponsor to submit a list of objectives, benefits, and manner of funding for all trips that were overnight or required more than two hours of travel time. In most instances, trips would require district certified bus drivers. Shaw was given permission by the board to attend a four-day conference of the American Association of School Administrators in Las Vegas next February. He will be appearing on a panel discussion on solar energy. The intermediate district has applied for a federal grant to partially heat with solar panels its new school for the handicapped. The board accepted the resignation of Leslie Stark, instructor in the small engine repair program at the Skills center. Richard Miller, Lawrence, was hired to replace him at an annual salary of $10,319. The board also voted to move its January meeting from the fifth to the 12th to avoid a conflict with the holidays.

Oft-Delayed Cleanout Of Drain To Get Underway In Van Buren

PAW PAW — After three years of controversy, work on cleaning out a 2.5 mile section of the Gates drain in Paw Paw and Decatur townships is finally scheduled to get underway the middle of this month.

Elmyra Hearn, Van Buren county drain commissioner, said yesterday the $81,000 project is expected to be finished by the end of May.

Masons Will Install Officers At Lawrence

LAWRENCE — Lawrence Rising Sun Masonic Lodge 119 will hold a public installation for 1977 officers Dec. 8 at 8 p.m. at the lodge. Robert Austin is to be installed as worshipful master of the lodge.

Work will include removal of snags and sediment and selective cutting of some trees and brush along the bank.

The costs of the project will be paid through a special assessment to about 1,000 property owners in the drainage district in parts of Antwerp, Decatur, Paw Paw, and Porter townships. Assessments may be reviewed in the drain commissioner's office from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Opponents of the project argued that the drain, which is a designated trout stream, would be damaged environmentally. They also claimed the project would add silt to Maple Lake in Paw Paw into which it flows, and that an unfair share of the cost would fall on those who would receive very little actual benefit.

In June, 1975, then Van Buren Circuit Court Judge David Anderson, Jr. issued a temporary restraining order against the project. Anderson later withdrew from the case because he lives on Maple Lake in the drainage area.

This past May, Judge James Hoff of Cass county barred the cleanout on the grounds that the village of Paw Paw was not notified of the meeting of the original board of determination in 1973 as required.

A group of farmers then petitioned again for the cleanout, and on June 29 a new board of determination approved it.

Mrs. Hearn said the work will be done between 78th avenue in Decatur township and CR-358 in Paw Paw township. The only major change from the way the project, was originally set up is that two permanent sediment basins will be installed, she said. They are to be located just north of CR-358 and north of the I-94 bridge.

A bid of $46,967 by Bernard Thomas and Sons, Decatur, the low among three submitted, has been accepted for the work. Mrs. Hearn said the remainder of the $81,000 cost is in publishing costs, attorney's fees, engineering work, pay for the two boards of determination, and fees to Walter Morris, Allegan county drain commissioner.

Morris handled the spread of assessments because Mrs. Hearn has relatives in the drainage district.

Former Senator May Get Back Pay

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Senate has voted to give $16,500 to Charles Youngblood, the ex-state Senator who resigned three years ago after being convicted in a bribe conspiracy case involving liquor licenses. The state Court of Appeals later overturned the conviction.

By unanimous voice vote Wednesday, the Senate approved an amendment to a minor appropriations bill giving $16,544.39 to Youngblood, a 12-year veteran in the Senate who stepped down Jan. 9, 1974.

Youngblood had collected only $45.70 of his pay that year, and the bill would give him the remainder of the year's salary, even though Youngblood performed no work for the state during that time.

Youngblood, who now lives in Gulliver in the Upper Peninsula, was convicted Oct. 17, 1973, of conspiring to bribe state liquor commissioner Stanley Thayer in an alleged scheme to obtain liquor licenses for three suburban Detroit supermarkets.

Also convicted in the conspiracy were Wayne County Probate Judge Frank Szymanski and beer and wine distributor Louis Pappas. Youngblood was sentenced to 60 days in jail and fined $3,000.

The convictions were reversed by the state Court of Appeals which said there was no proof offered the Wayne County Circuit Court jury that Szymanski and Pappas were guilty of conspiracy. The court said there was evidence implicating Youngblood, but that he could not be guilty as charged since there was no evidence tying the other two men to a conspiracy.

Following his conviction, Youngblood came under strong pressure from fellow Democrats to resign because of public criticism. Fellow Senators told Youngblood he would be removed unless he stepped down.

Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, who sponsored the amendment said Youngblood "would have been removed" if he hadn't quit. And he said he has not talked to Youngblood since then.

"It's a matter of conscience," Faust said. "We made him resign — and at the time I thought that was right."

Szymanski was paid some $54,000 in salary held in escrow while he faced the bribe conspiracy charges. He has since resumed his court duties.

Faust commented that the money for Youngblood "will pay the attorney who advised him not to resign."

The bill containing Youngblood's money is up for a vote today. It also contains $2.4 million to reimburse local units of government for the costs of the May presidential primary.

Stockman Inviting 102 To Capitol Swearing-In

Congressman-elect Dave Stockman has invited selected friends and campaign contributors to a day-long swearing-in celebration as he joins the U.S. House of Representatives Jan. 4 in Washington, D.C.

Stockman sent 102 invitations to people from all parts of the Fourth Congressional District, according to John L. Globensky, Stockman's general campaign chairman and St. Joseph attorney.

Invited are friends and people who gave substantial amounts of time or money to the Republican's winning campaign for the house, Globensky said.

Globensky said the people invited will pay their own expenses, although Stockman's staff will help arrange hotel reservations.

Globensky noted that the number of invitations had to be limited because of the space available at a few of the places to be visited Jan. 4. Unfortunately, he added, not everyone invited will be able to watch the actual swearing-in ceremony because of the small size of the House gallery.

Globensky listed the schedule of the day's events:

10:30 a.m. — Reception in Stockman's Congressional office.

Noon — Luncheon at the Capitol Hill club, compliments of Stockman. The restaurant is for House and Senate members and their guests, Globensky said.

2 p.m. — Official swearing-in ceremony in the House chamber. All members of the new Congress will be sworn in in a short mass ceremony.

7 p.m. — Dutch treat dinner at one of Washington's best restaurants.

Van Buren Lists Campaign Spenders

PAW PAW — State Rep. Bela Kennedy (R-Bangor) and unsuccessful probate judge candidate William J. Hoyer of South Haven were the top campaign spenders among Van Buren county candidates in the Nov. 2 general election.

Kennedy, seeking re-election to the 45th district seat, spent $2,614 while receiving $2,871 in contributions of $100 or less from 98 groups and individuals, according to a statement filed in the county clerk's office.

A statement filed on behalf of Hoyer listed expenditures of $2,449 and one $40 contribution.

According to Clerk Charles E. MacDonald, all candidates were required to file expense statements by Nov. 22. MacDonald said that shortly after that date, he sent letters to all candidates for county offices who had not complied. He said that according to the state election law, they have an additional 10 days following receipt of those letters to file statements, or face possible legal action.

MacDonald said the names of those who have failed to comply will be turned over to the prosecutor's office. County, city, and township candidates who were elected may not be sworn in or receive any compensation until expense statements are filed, he said.

The heaviest spending was in Columbia township. Among incumbent Republicans, Supervisor Nathan Ellis spent $197. Clerk Ronald Krieger $166, and Treasurer Gloria Waite, $103. The Columbia township Democratic party spent $391 on its slate of five candidates.

Palisades Nuclear Plant Shut Down

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich. (AP) — A problem with the main turbine generator forced the shutdown Wednesday of Consumer Powers Company's Palisades nuclear plant.

A spokesman for the utility said the equipment is not located in the nuclear portion of the 686,000 kilowatt facility. It is expected to be repaired today, and the plant will be returned to service at that time, he said.

The spokesman, Mike Koschik, explained that the power supply to the generator portion is supplied through the use of printed electronic circuit boards.

He said engineers reported one of the boards apparently malfunctioned and caused the generator to shut down, affecting the entire plant.

Foreigners Dodge U.S. Fish Limit

WASHINGTON (AP) - Foreign governments and companies are buying into U.S. seafood firms in an apparent effort to avoid compliance with a law restricting foreign fishing within 200 miles of the U.S. coast.

At least one congressman involved in passage of the new law establishing the 200-mile limit says he is planning legislation to halt foreign efforts to buy into U.S. fleets.

To date, 56 foreign businesses and the Soviet government either have bought an interest in a U.S. seafood company or have joined with an American firm to form a joint-venture corporation.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Ease Upward

NEW YORK (A) — Stock prices rose a bit again today in early trading.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up a fraction and rising issues on the New York Stock Exchange held a 3-2 lead on those declining.

In the news background, the plans President-elect Jimmy Carter has for dealing with the economy were still uncertain.

Carter's press spokesman said that after a meeting with 16 economists, bankers and businessmen Wednesday no decision has been made on a tax cut or other economic stimulation.

Carter was said to be convinced that the economy is in worse shape than he originally thought.

Early prices today included Buttes Gas & Oil, off 3/4 at 18 1/4; Dome Mines, up 1/2 at 44; and Belden Corp., up 1/4 at 25 1/4.

On Wednesday, the Dow Jones industrial average rose 2.16 to 949.38.

Advancing issues on the NYSE led those declining by an 8-5 margin.

Volume on the Big Board rose to 21.96 million shares from 17.03 million Tuesday.

The NYSE composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .23 to 55.03.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained .30 to close at 99.24.

BH Issues 8 Building Permits

Twin Cities Glass Co., install a sliding glass window in office of Michigan Fruit Cannery, 248 Ninth street, $350; and nine storm windows in a single-family dwelling owned by the Federal Housing Administration at 635 East Empire avenue, $185.

Guy Huddleston, tuck point exterior foundation wall and repair brick entrance steps of a single-family dwelling owned by Yvonne Hughes at 560 East Empire, $225; Fern Boynton, enclose furnace area of commercial building she owns at 231 East Empire, $250; Allen Harvell, replace porch deck of two-family dwelling he owns at 552 Broadway, $150; and Percy Holliday, install two back porch windows of single-family dwelling he owns at 1081 Pearl street, $100.

McCord Says Sales Are Up, Earnings Down

DETROIT (AP) — McCord Corp. officials said Wednesday sales for the first quarter ending Nov. 30 are expected to be about $40 million, up from $35.9 million in the same period last year.

Net earnings are estimated at $1.7 million or 57 cents a share, down from the record $2.2 million or 74 cents a share in the period a year ago.

Officials said the expected cut in earnings came primarily because costs increased at the Davidson Rubber Division.

Also, 1977 model year product introduction costs were higher than planned, officials said.

Utility Tracking Old Customers

By DONALD WOUTAT
Associated Press Writer
JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — A Michigan public utility is trying to give back nearly $30 million to its gas and electric customers, but its not as easy as it sounds.

Consumers Power Co. is resorting to a costly national advertising campaign to track down 1970 and 1971 customers who don't know they're entitled to $5 or $10 refunds.

"Some of them who received our refund checks thought they were bills, and they wrote us a check," says Jack Mercado, who heads the refund project for Consumers Power.

The company has purchased ads in the Wall Street Journal, the National Observer, 45 state daily newspapers and 135 weekly papers and bought time on 38 radio stations and a dozen television stations to get the message out, Mercado says.

He declined to estimate the cost of the search, but said it will be borne by shareholders, not customers.

It's not a case of generosity. Consumers Power, the state's second largest public utility, was ordered to make the refunds earlier this year after a lengthy court battle.

An Ingham County Circuit Court judge agreed with the state attorney general's office that the utility had failed to seek a reduction in its rates after a federal income tax surcharge was eliminated in 1970.

The judge ordered refunds, including 6 per cent interest, to reimburse all 1970 and 1971 customers the amount they were overcharged during that period.

That comes to $29.7 million for at least 1.6 million customers. The state says it's the largest refund ever ordered for a utility in Michigan, and Mercado says it's a "humdinger" to accomplish.

Consumers Power sent out nearly a million checks worth $19.6 million on Nov. 1, but that was the easy part. The initial mailings went to customers who haven't moved since 1970 or 1971.

The ads, and some $50,000 brochures to current customers who might have been Consumers Power customers elsewhere five or six years ago, have attracted 322,000 applications for refunds. A staff of 50 is wading through the applications now, says Mercado.

Some refunds are under $1, but one large industrial customer got more than $100,000, according to Mercado. Most refunds are in the $5 to $10 range.

Even if all those applicants are valid, that leaves at least 300,000 customers who haven't been contacted. Mercado said the number is probably higher than that.

He said the experience has made him wonder "where people go when they leave Michigan."

The court gave Consumers Power up to four years to make reasonable efforts to give out the money. Anything left will go to the state of Michigan.

"We'd like to get it all out," said Mercado. "We don't get to keep any of it."

IRS Seeks Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service is proposing a change in tax law to require college professors to pay income taxes on the value of any tuition-free college education their schools provide to their children.

Currently, this tuition-free education, a standard fringe benefit at many colleges and universities, is considered a nontaxable scholarship.

Bill Puts Business Tax In Spotlight

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Senate Taxation Committee has approved a major change in the state's business tax, but members admit it will never become law.

Supporters of the bill said Wednesday the change nonetheless indicates the committee's support for changes in the state's Single Business Tax (SBT) and its commitment to pursue other changes.

The bill, which would provide tax relief for small businesses, was sponsored by Sen. Robert Davis, R-Gaylord, who also introduced a bill repealing the SBT altogether.

Davis' bill, which he said would cost the state up to $50 million a year in lost tax revenue, was reported on a 3-2 vote. Voting for the bill were Sens. John Bowman, D-Roseville, John Welborn, R-Kalamazoo and Harry DeMaso, R-Battle Creek. Opposed were Democrats Michael O'Brien of Detroit and Gary Corbin of Clio.

The bill would provide a $15,000 exemption for all businesses — if they made less than that, they would pay no tax. Up to $40,000, the business could pay a five per cent tax on the difference between $40,000 and their net earnings. Over $40,000, the company would have to pay the regular Single Business Tax.

The intent is to help small businesses which make little or no money, but which still have to pay the tax. Supporters said that aspect of the tax is forcing some firms out of business.

"All of us are aware that the chances of any of these bills becoming law are practically nil," said Bowman, committee chairman. "But we have the responsibility to let people know ... there are serious problems and this is one way of spotlighting those problems."

The controversial tax was enacted last year to replace eight business taxes. It levies a single tax on profits, payrolls, interest and depreciation.

Dow Might Give Up On Nuke Plant

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — Dow Chemical Co. is considering other sources of power because of delays in construction of Consumers Power Co.'s nuclear plant near here, a Dow official said Wednesday.

Joseph Temple Jr., Dow Michigan Division general manager, testified at a Nuclear Regulatory Commission hearing that Consumers threatened to sue Dow if the Midland-headquartered chemical company tried to back down from its commitment to use processed steam from the plant.

Dow and Consumers are renegotiating a 1974 contract committing Dow to using processed steam generated by the nuclear plant.

The Dow plant generates its own power from fossil fuel plants, but company officials estimate those aging facilities will not last beyond 1984. The nuclear plant is scheduled to begin operations in 1982.

Another delay in construction of the nuclear facility would force Dow to decide if the company would have to find another source of steam, Temple said.

He said the company would "continue to keep all its options open."

Temple said Consumers' Board Chairman A.H. Aymond told Dow officials the utility could go bankrupt if the plant were shut down permanently. Aymond estimated Consumers' potential losses at $600 million and told Dow officials Consumers would pursue "any avenue to recover full damages from Dow," Temple said.

If there were no chance of a lawsuit, Temple said, "Dow would go its own way" and probably not use nuclear power to operate its plant.

Temple said if the nuclear plant were not in operation by 1984, "We feel that we have been discharged of our obligations to Consumers."

The comments were made at the second day of a federal hearing to determine if construction should be halted while Consumers' construction permits are reviewed.

Ruling Due On Firm's Pullout

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A federal judge says he will decide by Monday if a Nebraska firm may pull one of its production lines out of Michigan.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Wendell Miles made the comment this week while concluding two days of hearings on a suit by Kitson Poultry Equipment Co. of Morley.

Kitson wants a court order forbidding Lockwood Corp. of Gering, Neb., to move production of its bean harvesters. Lockwood wants to shift that production line to one of its plants in Antigo, Wis.

But Kitson claimed it geared up for production before learning about the change in plans from Lockwood officials. The Morley firm also contended it cannot find other jobs for 75 to 90 workers and the area is suffering from a high unemployment rate.

Lockwood officials insisted they provided notice enough and are merely making a sound business decision. Lockwood has been ordered not to move its production until the case is decided.

Two Investors Agree To Buy Grandville Plant

GRANDVILLE, Mich. (AP) — A $4.5 million agreement in principle to sell a Grandville plant has been reached between Harman International Industries Inc. and two investors.

Harman officials said closing date for the deal with William D. Witter and Hillary B. Miller is Jan. 31. Officials at the Grandville plant said they had no further information about the new owners.

Sidney Harman, president of the firm based in Lake Success, N.Y., said the Grandville plant was sold since its output of jet engine parts is unrelated to other Harman activities.

Harman makes stereo equipment and speakers plus side view mirrors for autos.

Bendix Chief Won't Join Carter Team

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Bendix Corp. President Michael Blumenthal met Wednesday with President-elect Jimmy Carter, but the business leader and expert on economic matters in two administrations does not plan to leave Bendix, a company spokesman said.

The company spokesman said Blumenthal's meeting with Carter in Plains, Ga., should not be construed as a move by Blumenthal toward a post in the new administration.

The spokesman said Blumenthal indicated two weeks ago at a conclave of Bendix employees that he would remain with the company and would not take a post in the Carter administration, the spokesman said.

Blumenthal, president of Bendix since 1972, was among the 16 economists, bankers and businessmen who met with Carter to discuss economic matters.

He served as an expert on economic matters to Presidents John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson and was an economics professor at Princeton University.

Lincoln Phone Transfer Vetoed

By STEVE MCQUOWN

LANSING — A proposal by some Lincoln township residents to transfer 230 telephone customers from Mid-Michigan telephone company to Michigan Bell to eliminate long distance toll charges has been denied by a hearing officer for the Michigan Public Service Commission.

In an order dated Tuesday and issued Wednesday, Administrative Law Judge William A. Austin recommended that the full commission dismiss the complaint and proposed changes.

Appeals of the hearing officer's decision must be filed with the commission within 20 days of the issuance date (Dec. 1). Austin said in a cover letter announcing his decision.

He based his decision on testimony taken during hearing in Lansing on June 29 and 30, July 21 and Aug. 19.

The recommended dismissal is a setback in the two-year-old drive by the group of Mid-Michigan telephone users living north of Lincoln road in Lincoln township who sought the change.

They had claimed that most of their day-to-day activity is connected with school, government and business units in Michigan Bell's 429 and Twin Cities exchanges and that by having Mid-Michigan's 465 exchange, they were being forced to pay unnecessary and costly long distance toll charges.

In a drive initiated in October, 1974, they asked the Public Service Commission to:

— Order Michigan Bell to expand its 429 dialing into that portion of Mid-Michigan's 465 area, north of Lincro road.

— Order both telephone companies to make the necessary physical connections to provide extended area service (EAS) and thus eliminate toll calls between the areas; or — Order Mid-Michigan to provide customers north of Lincoln road with a calling area equivalent to the calling area of its Baroda Exchange where customers can call non-long distance into the Stevensville and St. Joseph (but not Benton Harbor) exchanges.

Both Mid-Michigan and Michigan Bell telephone companies opposed the proposed transfer and changes.

In announcing his decision, Austin said that based on testimony taken during the hearings, he concluded that:

— To grant proposed changes sought would be of great expense to Mid-Michigan, requiring a basic charge of $25 monthly if a new central office were placed in the area.

Further, that EAS or transfer to the Baroda exchange would bring higher rates for all Mid-Michigan users and some Bell users as well.

— Some complainants have substantial toll call charges into Bell's St. Joseph and Benton Harbor exchanges, but their bills indicate many calls by these few customers and that many, perhaps a majority of such calls, are as reasonable as four cents to 10 cents each.

— Neither of the telephone companies are agreeable to taking or giving up any assigned territory to the other.

— Basic telephone service in the Bridgman exchange is adequate.

— There are reasonable alternative services available for

Libya Buys Hefty Slice Of Fiat

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Oil-rich Libya, once an Italian colony, has bought a hefty slice of Italy's largest company, the auto giant Fiat, the company announced Wednesday.

The Libyans will invest a total of $415 million in the company, including a $104 million loan at minimal interest. They will get in return 9.6 per cent stake in the company, two of the 15 seats on the board of directors and one of the top five executive positions, the company said.

"We cannot speak of any takeover even of a minority interest by the Libyans, but simply of an investment by the Libyan side," said Fiat President Gianni Agnelli. "Libya is not in a position of power but in the position of investors."

"The agreement ... has no political implications," he added, saying there would be no "political interference" in the company's affairs.

The deal is subject to Italian government and Fiat shareholder approval, but Agnelli met with Italian President Giovanni Leone on Wednesday, indicating government approval was likely. The Fiat board of directors has already approved the deal.

Fiat employs nearly 200,000 workers in Italy. It is split into 10 groups, covering everything from automobiles and planes to Cinzano Vermouth and Bantam books in the United States.

Fiat has produced about a million cars a year, about the size of Chrysler in the United States.

According to a U.S. Commerce Department survey, Arab investment in the United States at the end of 1974 totaled about $1.7 billion, much of it in the petroleum processing industry and real estate.

VAN HITS OVERPASS SUPPORT: Driver of this van was hospitalized when van went out of control on slippery I-94 and crashed into support of Benton Center road overpass early today, Benton township police said. Driver Harold Richards, 36, Kalamazoo, was reported in "serious" condition at Mercy hospital with fractures of arm and leg and possible internal injuries. He was alone in van and crash was reported at about 2:30 a.m. (Staff photo)

Chinese TV Sets On U.S. Market?

By STEPHEN FOX
AP Business Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Will Americans be watching Monday night football on Red Chinese television sets a few years from now?

That's one of the intriguing questions raised by Barry Richman, professor of management and international business at the Graduate School of Management of the University of California at Los Angeles.

Richman, an expert on the economy of the People's Republic of China, thinks trade between the United States and China will increase dramatrically in the next few years, with color television sets, transistor radios and other consumer electronics among the possible items being imported by this country.

"You may well see color television sets from China within the next five years," Richman said in an interview. "They're producing them now, but they're talking about producing them for mass markets. If they did, they could undersell the Japanese. In fact, I think you'll see some of the same imports here that you saw after World War II from Japan and Korea."

Richman, who has traveled widely in mainland China, says the recent purge of the so-called "radical" Chinese leaders after the death of Chairman Mao Tse-tung may lead to more rapid industrial growth for China under its new rulers.

"It remains to be seen whether Chairman Hua Guofeng — Mao's successor — will abandon substantially the traditional model of self-reliance in favor of a rapid, long-term infusion of foreign capital and technology to meet the pressing economic requirements of modernization," he said.

"But if the moderates can maintain control for the next 10 to 15 years, China would be in a position to achieve a real economic growth rate in the range of 5 to 8 per cent a year."

Richman says this could boost Sino-American trade to the $3-billion to $6-billion level, a whopping increase from the $1-billion figure of recent years.

Some of the products likely to be exported from the United States, in Richman's view, are chemical plants, agricultural machinery, computers and heavy transportation equipment.

In turn, the Chinese are likely to sell Americans gourmet foods, textiles, sporting goods, musical instruments and minerals, he believes.

China has paid much more for imports in recent years than it has gained on exports and suffers from a balance of payments deficit. However, Richman thinks the vast Chinese oil reserves could reverse that trend.

"China may well have more oil in the ground, and especially offshore, than all of Saudi Arabia," he said. "Exactly how much is there, we don't know."

"But we do know the quantity is very great, and China also has much potential to develop and utilize other sources of energy. So it is highly possible that the export of oil in exchange for technological goods and expertise could turn China's recent balance of payments deficit into a surplus."

Industry sources estimate that China ranks about 10th in world oil production and about ninth in proven oil reserves.

Development of the Chinese oil will mean business for Western firms that manufacture drilling equipment, offshore barges and refining facilities, Richman says, because the Chinese don't have the ability to get the oil out themselves.

"They're doing what they can, but to get at the oil does mean collaboration with someone in the Western world," he said. "They're already negotiating with Western consortiums."

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY DEAR HUSBAND ADOLPH B. FISKE who passed away Dec. 2, 1976. Four years ago today my beloved husband passed away. It was on a Saturday night before dawn. God sent an angel to carry him home. Off and on my thoughts do wander to the grave not for sleep.

Where I laid my dear husband. No tears all live can ever wake you. No broken heart can bring you back. Yet with me you'll never be. Because you are a part of me. A happy home we once enjoyed. How sweet the memory still. But death has left a loneliness. The world can never fill. The silent nights are lonely and there is no golden dawn. Because I must remember home, that you are gone. God's dear husband, please tell me. How I miss your smiling face. You left me feeling sad and blue. But never a day without you. That I don't think of you. Pleasant memories will always remain in my heart.

Chinese TV Sets On U.S. Market?

By STEPHEN FOX
AP Business Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Will Americans be watching Monday night football on Red Chinese television sets a few years from now?

That's one of the intriguing questions raised by Barry Richman, professor of management and international business at the Graduate School of Management of the University of California at Los Angeles.

Richman, an expert on the economy of the People's Republic of China, thinks trade between the United States and China will increase dramatically in the next few years, with color television sets, transistor radios and other consumer electronics among the possible items being imported by this country.

"You may well see color television sets from China within the next five years," Richman said in an interview. "They're producing them now, but they're talking about producing them for mass markets. If they did, they could undersell the Japanese. In fact, I think you'll see some of the same imports here that you saw after World War II from Japan and Korea."

Richman, who has traveled widely in mainland China, says the recent purge of the so-called "radical" Chinese leaders after the death of Chairman Mao Tse-tung may lead to more rapid industrial growth for China under its new rulers.

"It remains to be seen whether Chairman Hua Kuo-feng — Mao's successor — will abandon substantially the traditional model of self-reliance in favor of a rapid, long-term infusion of foreign capital and technology to meet the pressing economic requirements of modernization," he said.

"But if the moderates can maintain control for the next 10 to 15 years, China would be in a position to achieve a real economic growth rate in the range of 5 to 8 per cent a year."

Richman says this could boost Sino-American trade to the $3-billion to $6-billion level, a whopping increase from the $1-billion figure of recent years.

Some of the products likely to be exported from the United States, in Richman's view, are chemical plants, agricultural machinery, computers and heavy transportation equipment.

In turn, the Chinese are likely to sell Americans gourmet foods, textiles, sporting goods, musical instruments and minerals, he believes.

China has paid much more for imports in recent years than it has gained on exports and suffers from a balance of payments deficit. However, Richman thinks the vast Chinese oil reserves could reverse that trend.

"China may well have more oil in the ground, and especially offshore, than all of Saudi Arabia," he said. "Exactly how much is there, we don't know."

"But we do know the quantity is very great, and China also has much potential to develop and utilize other sources of energy. So it is highly possible that the export of oil in exchange for technological goods and expertise could turn China's recent balance of payments deficit into a surplus."

Industry sources estimate that China ranks about 10th in world oil production and about ninth in proven oil reserves.

Development of the Chinese oil will mean business for Western firms that manufacture drilling equipment, offshore barges and refining facilities, Richman says, because the Chinese don't have the ability to get the oil out themselves.

"They're doing what they can, but to get at the oil does mean collaboration with Western consortiums," he said. "They're already negotiating with Western consortiums."

$129,000 Estate Is In Probate

Proceedings have been initiated in Berrien Probate court on the estimated $129,000 estate of Edyth W. Tennyson of Niles, who died Nov. 4.

Mrs. Tennyson's 1964 will lists real estate holdings valued at about $29,000 and personal property at $100,000. The will bequeaths one-third of the estate to a sister, Helen Wallace, of Los Angeles, and says the remainder is to be divided equally between a son, Donald A. Tennyson, of Niles, and a daughter, Phyllis T. Stevens, of East Lansing.

WHY NOVA?

BECAUSE

Last year, the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department put a brand-new '76 specially equipped Nova and other cars through 24 different tests of durability and performance. When all the tests were over, it placed the largest order for compact police cars in U.S. history...and selected Nova.

Other law enforcement agencies have checked out Nova, too. And last year, Nova became the largest selling compact police car of all.

You see, this year's Nova is still a car for people who appreciate the old-fashioned American virtues. It's a hard-working car. Rugged. Dependable. Price minded. It's a good buy for the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department and we honestly believe it will be a good buy for you, too.

A car built for a long and happy life. All of a sudden, everybody's trying to copy our Nova.

WHY NOVA?

BECAUSE

BECAUSE
BECAUSE

history...and selected Nova. Other law enforcement agencies have checked out Nova, too. And last year, Nova became the largest selling compact police car of all.

You see, this year's Nova is still a car for people who appreciate the old-fashioned American virtues. It's a hard-working car. Rugged. Dependable. Price minded. It's a good buy for the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department and we honestly believe it will be a good buy for you, too.

A car built for a long and happy life.

All of a sudden,
everybody's trying to copy our Nova.
